"Not Gonna say Your Name"

by Guy Blakeslee (AKA ENTRANCE)

There are people who say we oughta give you a chance
but there's not a chance in hell that we'll gonna sit back and watch you try to turn back the clock and just sigh and say "oh well"
No, we'll fight you every step of the way you're playing a losing game and you'll be the one with nothing to say but I'm not gonna say our name

I'm sick of your name,
I've heard it enough
I'd rather not hear it anymore
but you're wrong if you think we can look the other way while you kick our friends to the floor
And though it's hard to accept you're really here to stay our culture is obsessed with fame
I might have to see your face a hundred times every day but I'm not gonna say your name

you let your name
be a symbol of hate
and you never said a word anything you say now is too little too late it's pathetic and absurd
I hear the voices of hate they're getting louder each day we're all looking for someone to blame but I'll keep on singing for love anyway and I'm not gonna say your name

tell me don't you have a mother?
a daughter, a wife?
Man, you really oughta be ashamed
the way you brag about grabbing what gave you your life
you must really think life is a game well a big storm is coming, it might last four years maybe nothing will ever be the same but we won't move away, we will stay right here and we're not gonna say your name

Guy Blakeslee
ENTRANCE

One silver lining to this current political disaster is that many in my generation have been inspired to write protest music in a style more direct and sincere than I've seen in some time.

A highlight of this recent batch is the song "Not Gonna Say Your Name," written by Los Angeles-based musician Guy Blakeslee (aka ENTRANCE).

"Not Gonna Say Your Name" is now available with all proceeds from song purchases going directly to Planned Parenthood, an organization that Blakeslee holds near and dear to his heart.

Find it here:

UPDATE: Women March and Gather Sunday in Bolinas: TIME CHANGE to Rainy Day

Venue at BOLINAS COMMUNITY CENTER at 4*

It will be raining this Sunday. If it is not raining, plan to make the loop around the low-tide beach at 3:00 or so, and proceed from there to Community Center. If it IS raining, we will just gather at CC AFTER 4:00 for a fire, ceremony, tuning, song, and dance.

A variety of singer/songwriters are expected to participate, weather willing. They can be backed by a great band of local musos or go solo. I expect the music to jam out at the end because we will SO need to move after all that rain, and because our feelings will SO need release after the highs and lows of this coming weekend.

Please bring any photos or stories to share from the Marches in Oakland or SF.

So glad we can demonstrate our INDIVISIBLE solidarity in our community here at home.

PS Ilka says, "Please bring food to share!" (-jeff manson, Friday ed.)

READING TO JOHN

On Tues. 1/24 I'll return to Peter Orner's book for a look at Uncle Harry, and Orner's take on two quietly heartbreaking stories by Breece D'J Pancake and John Edgar Wideman that show how "all losses are collective." I'll finish with reviews.

Mindful Parenting with Roni Habib of EQ Schools

We all want our children to be happy, more peaceful, more attuned to others' needs, and to be able to regulate during stressful times. The best way for them to learn these skills is through watching their role models practice it. Yet, what does it mean to be mindful? And what does it mean to parent mindfully? How can we become more present with and for our children when life can be so incredibly busy? In our 90 minutes together, we'll explore these questions and understand the why and how of mindful parenting. This session will be active, fun, and you'll learn a ton!

Bolinas-Stinson School invites you to attend this interactive session for parents, which is in alignment with the work we are developing as a staff (along with Site Council) to further meet the social-emotional needs of our students and continue to make the school climate the amazing place we want it to be. For more information on Roni and EQ Schools, check out: <http://www.eqschools.com/speaking.php>

Join us for a special evening at the Bolinas library, next Tues night at 7pm. In this intimate gathering, a few local songwriters will play original acoustic music as well as talk a bit about their process. This will be a part one of a two part series.

Singing their songs:

Alex Bleeker is in several nationally touring bands and plants himself deeply in the Bolinas community in between his musical adventures.

Hearsay News editor Jeff Manson just finished his new album "Wild Form", which is full of cryptically topical songs, and sneaky references that probably only Bolinas locals will pick up on.

Luke Temple is a song-writer, painter and recording artist with half a dozen critically acclaimed albums under his belt. He moved Point Reyes Station from New York last year and now has his hands in many local musical pots, including the once a month "Good Fortune" improv night at the Western.

Gabe Korty was born and raised in Point Reyes, is a musician, and creator of the Parachute Days concert series at Love Field.

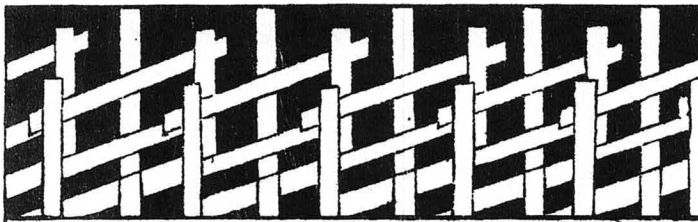

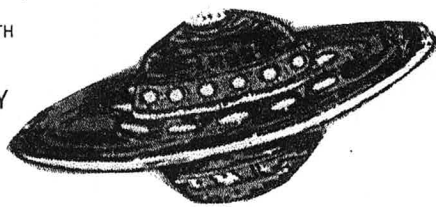

Van Waring will be found most recently playing with her musical companions in the country covers group Gospel Flatters, and checking out your library items. Though you might not know it, she writes songs too.

Come celebrate these wild times with this mellow event sure to inspire and ignite!

What about a Maximum Wage?

All work is important.

Different jobs pay different rates. Farm stoop-laborers, retail clerks, custodians, ditch-diggers, baby sitters, and slaughterhouse workers get a minimum wage of $15 per hour, more or less. Barbers, bookkeepers, plumbers and electricians make a little bit more; bankers, lawyers and doctors are probably better off than them, and executives of Multi-National Corporations get the most.

Think of it this way: A plumber who makes $60 per hour is worth four retail clerks at $15 per hour. A lawyer at $120 is worth eight slaughterhouse workers.

How much are you worth? What makes sense for a Maximum Wage. Does ten-to-one seem about right? Can a really special person be worth ten ordinary workers? $150 per hour?

How many minimum wage workers does the President of Exxon replace? In 2016, the web tells me, Rex Tillerson was paid a little over $24 million dollars. My iphone calculator says that's eleven thousand dollars an hour ... seven-hundred and thirty-three people. What does he do in his spare time?

Are you looking to make ends meet?
Can this be right?
What do you think?

Note to our esteemed and luminous villagers:

The Briones Lions Club is looking for volunteers. Here's a brief fact sheet:

Main goal: do good without expecting remuneration or recognition; do good for the sake of doing good.

First launched here in Bolinas in 1966;

Took over managing the 4th of July in Bolinas in 1971 (think of how many fun times have been had and behind it all, the Briones Lions Club volunteers);

Believed to be the first Lions Club globally to break the mold and open the doors to women (first woman: our beloved Barbie Rothwell); today it is a balanced mix of women and men;

Donates reading glasses and exams to our school kids;

Donates dental and other medical services when certain needs call for it;

Conducts lagoon cleanup activities between Bolinas and Stinson 2x per year;

Runs the show on 4th of July;

Sponsors kids for summer camps;

And, among other good things, honors community members that make a difference.

In summary, it's a presence in town that does not call a lot of attention to itself yet it pays a lot of attention to making sure the community is taken care of.

I went to a recent meeting and decided to join.

They are looking for others to do the same to keep it viable here.

What's involved?

- Attend 1 meeting per month at the Rod and Boat Club
- Volunteer a few hours on 4th of July
- Share your perspectives on how to make a difference

Contact Matt Lewis or Connie Pepper-Lewis for more information.

Trumped Out?

If the recent presidential election results have you down, I have a suggestion: Turn that anxiety into action! Join a group that has quietly helped our community for many years.

And the timing is perfect - You are truly needed, now!

Be a part of making things better for your community. It's cheaper than therapy, and takes a lot less time to see results. The Briones Lions Club is in need of new members to continue its good work for the people of Stinson Beach and Bolinas. Their next meeting is Thursday, January 26, 2017 at 7:00 pm at the Bolinas Rod and Boat Club.

Show up. Just show up.

Keep your eyes focused forward and your hands busy with good work. It will get better.
