White Walls and Moonlight

"Every something is an echo of nothing"

"In the dark, all cats are black"

— John Cage

Well, Charlie Callahan and I finally pulled ourselves out of the Patch around 9:30 last night, shivering and stoned from our 4th night in a row of quietly gliding, aimless and alone on an un-noticed, perfectly-clean, chest-high long-period west swell. Night surfing is devotional surfing. The crowd long gone, there is no one to see if you got a good one. Even with a bright moon, it is all feeling and energy. Even with all that paddling, you end up where you started. Doin nuthin, goin no place...

Coming up around the seawall and up the Brighton boat-ramp I smelled fresh paint and noticed that, while we were in the water, someone had rolled a clean coat of white over all the garish graffiti layers. All the usual bombastic voices that usually accompany my walk to the ocean were hushed into silence

The waxing gibbous threw mysterious shadows on the clean slate and I was reminded of Rauschenberg's White Paintings and Cage's silent composition 4'33" both works intended to passively express their surroundings.

I'm sure by the time I get today's Hearsay printed and delivered, someone will have scrawled their name on the wall and, slowly it will fill up again. Nevertheless, like the silent space between breaths, last night's white wall reminds me of the beauty of nothing.

Or, to steal one more quote from Mr. Cage; "The highest purpose is to have no purpose at all. This puts one in accordance with nature, in her manner of operation."

-Jeff Manson, Friday Ed.

Vote Postponed on Revised Farm Lease

At the April 16 meeting the BCPUD Board will vote on the terms of the farm lease that includes 4 acres within the vicinity of the Sun Festival Site and in front of Resource Recovery, which sit on the BCPUD Sewer Pond Lands. The vote has been delayed from 3/19 to 4/16. Please visit the area via the trails and see the lease at the Bolinas Library or on line at www.bcpud.org, link to Bolinas Community Plan. A BCPUD Committee has been working for several months to revise the lease in regards to land stewardship and other issues. Your input is welcome. If you wish to comment directly to the Board and Committee, please send to bcpud@bcpud.org.

Public Lands for Local Food

It has been such an honor and a pleasure to farm for our community and feel the pulse of a town, hungry for local food. Right now in addition to caring for the produce in the ground, we are working to ensure continued access to the winter garden we have established on the public land above the Resource Recovery. The lease of these fields is crucial for producing local food in the winter months, and for ensuring a great spring full of tasty veggies we could not otherwise produce down on the flood plain at Gospel Flat.

The Bolinas Community Plan, our town's holy grail, specifically encourages agriculture as a part of the BCPUD landscape, and year round, sustainable produce is a central solution to decrease our community's dependence on oil. To wit, Gospel Flat Farm has been growing food at the Resource Recovery site for over 20 years. Three years ago in a public meeting the BCPUD issued us an official lease. At that time we asked to expand our operation to include two parcels up the steep path from RR, in order to dry farm winter vegetables and plant orchards. Much of these abandoned pastures were overgrown with invasive brush, sprinkled with trash and peppered with homeless camps.

We are rediscovering the old ways of dry farming (farming without irrigation) in the winter and spring season, using natural drainage and rainfall to produce mid-winter and early spring crops. There are historical documents showing this practice in West Marin pre WWII.

Today, the fields are full of certified organic produce and baby fruit trees. It is deeply inspiring to think of winter as a great time to grow food in Bolinas, and we are intent on perfecting the art.

Over the past 7 months, we have been working with the Sewer Ponds Lands Committee to fine tune the lease, addressing some community members' concerns and we are happy with the new document. The updated lease will be voted on by the BCPUD board on the 19th of this month, and the more support the community can voice for it, the better.

We encourage you to take a stroll up and explore the BCPUD farm; it is a great space and the trails are in great shape. This land is your land, after all.

Thank you so much,
Mickey Murch and Family

They Know Not What They Do

I enjoyed the Wednesday, March 12, Hearsay by the humorous Steve Heilig. Enclosed was the Dierk's pictures and mention of their Organic Farm. I know the process required to be "Certified Organic." I had been researching it since I had always grown and raised Organic food on my property (stolen, temporarily, by a criminal Hedge fund).

> I was aware that, for one thing, the soil is repeatedly tested for a few years. In light of this very involved process I wonder if anyone believes that the BCPUD Sewer land recently commandeered, with no meaningful notice, very little money, and a lot of noise in the Sewer/ Bird Refuge would ever pass the soil tests for Organic. Apparently the C in the BCPUD stands for little in this convoluted, dangerous project.

> After all, one might assume that the chemicals that end up in our toilets, sinks, and washers in the downtown will end up in the spray area after the filtration process that is our sewer. The Sacred/ consecrated land that is our Sun Festival Land was made very wet by the overflow of the water from the Spray area. In the beginning we called it the May Day Festival but then the wetness put off our Festivals until June or later. More recently it has been a much smaller celebration on the Beach. The precious land, designed as also a Bird Sanctuary looks more like Kansas. If you go down the road from the Lab building across Mesa Rd. and down, you will see the lovely Peter Warshall bench, so lovingly placed there for a man who gave so much knowledge to so many of us. If you walk up the pathway from the bench, and go to the left, you will likely be horrified by the destruction already happening there to our Land. The farmers put up fences that keep not only deer out but also our Community that owns that land.

> How did that horror happen, you might wonder, as did those of us on a Committee quickly set up to rectify the lack of Community process in this project that makes no sense. There has been no mention of previous testing of the soil that the Sewer spray area overflows onto, nor the effect the loud tractor has on the birds and the quiet meditative walkers who have used this land for close to 40 years. What a tragedy! Obviously, the BCPUD Board who signed a Lease Agreement with the farmers with no public notice, whatsoever, were in error. That Board included a Director who had moved to San Francisco a few years previously who was not legally entitled (due to lack of residency) to even vote in town, much less to vote on this issue. There are only two Board members remaining who voted in this bogus land grab. Why did they do that you might ask? It has not even once been put on the BCPUD agenda so that the Community knew what was up.

> Noticing Bill Niman's name in the news lately, I hark back to the time when we had a BCPUD Board responsive to Community and Public Notice requirements including a meeting when Bill was President and someone tried to blow something by the Board and tried to persuade the Board to approve of his plan in advance of public knowledge. Bill's apropos response was to halt any further discussion on the issue until a great deal of information was presented to the Community including a formal vote. That process preserved the Community's right to control our own future, and preserved respect for the BCPUD Board that for years maintained its integrity. We are now being told we need 200 signatures to halt this counter intuitive plan to grow organic food in soil that is not. Do you want to eat food that claims to be organic but may in fact be infected with e. coli or Salmonella and contain any of the many drugs (like Speed, Oxycontin, Methadone, etc.) that has been flushed into our Sewer System for years. If you are outraged by this, please speak out now. A petition signed by 10% of the BCPUD voters would force this on the ballot in November. I know we are all much too busy with survival issues in this not yet healed economy but are we too worn out to fight ... in the name of Peter Warshall?

>THE BIGGEST ENEMY OF TRUTH IS NOT THE LIE ... IT'S THE MYTH.
 Is this bogus plan not a Myth predicated on an assumption that one can turn a sows ear into a silk purse?

Dear BCPUD Board Members,

I am writing regarding the Murch family continuing to farm on the BCPUD lands and the lease that has been drawn up around that issue. I just found out about this activity and I am disappointed with the further restrictions of the revised lease. It occurs to me that it was just a few people who had the say in this matter and there are many, many people of our community who totally support the Murches activity on our public lands without adding more restrictions.

If you were to take a vote I think this would be the vast majority who appreciate and also partake of the fruit of their labors. How fortunate we are to have the Murches. They are such valued members of our community and have done such a wonderful job of providing us with our food needs in a way that is good for the land as well! What better way to use the public land than to farm it for our local consumption by people we know and like!

I urge the Board to consider the following:

1. The wording of the agreement regarding the length of the lease should clearly state that it has the option of being renewed indefinitely with BCPUD Board approval! "The same covenants, conditions and provisions" should be open to discussion (1B).
2. I object to decreasing the size of the parcel.
3. I object to the exclusion of animals and welcome the presence of animals. Why not? I liked having the goats there.
4. BCPUD water should be available to the Murches. Why would the water be available for the ball parks needs and not the Murches? They should not have to bring water in. We want to make it as easy as possible for the people who provide us with our food!
5. Given the limitations imposed by this Committee I feel uneasy about any further proposed uses of the Leased Premises having to be filtered through
