NEIGHBORS HELPING NEIGHBORS

Hi All,

Recently, I assessed a new client for West Marin Senior Services. She is 90 years old and facing life changes and unexpected challenges. For the first time, she is in charge of running the house. Imagine how difficult it is to learn at this time of her life!!! Situations like this are common: Elders facing the challenge of completing day-to-day tasks. I would like to initiate a Neighbors Helping Neighbor Network through West Marin Senior Services.

There are numerous opportunities to volunteer in our sweet town. Trust me I do my fair share of helping out whether it's shopping for Food for Families or serving at any one of the many BCC events. I sense people don't feel comfortable saying "no" when asked if they can help out. Here is my solution to this problem: an email blast from Neighbors Helping Neighbors AND Here's how it works:

- Sign Up! The more people on the email blast the better. No one takes on too much responsibility. You sign up by completing a short volunteer application.
- When one of my clients from West Marin Senior Services or town needs help, I will blast the list with the situation and details.
- You only need to respond IF you want to and are available to help. If you are busy, no worries. Ignore the email.
- Opportunities to help range from picking up medications, driving to the clinic, walking a dog, picking up mail, helping with small household jobs etc.

You decide how much or how little you want to help out! If you are interested call or email me and I'll send you the application.

FIRE SEASON and the 4th of JULY

Most everyone is probably looking forward to a long weekend and celebrating the 4th of July with friends, family and food. It's my job to remind everyone to be safe and smart as they have a great time.

ALL fireworks (including Safe and Sane) are illegal in Marin County. Yes, this means Bolinas, too! They are illegal because of the safety issues and the fire danger. Did you know sparklers burn up to 1200 degrees Fahrenheit? That is hotter than the melting point of glass.

Bolinas is a beautiful town with a great deal of dry vegetation and historic buildings. It would take very little to start a devastating fire similar to what is being seen in other parts of California right now.

The Bolinas Fire Department would like you and your family to have a fun, safe 4th of July. Talk to your kids; explain to them the serious fire danger that exists in our town. Fireworks are the cause of more fires during the July 4th holiday than any other cause. Don't take the chance!

Jazz Course Postponed One Week

Due to a completely full ten days, I'm going to launch my 6-week seminar on July the 13th instead of on the 6th. This will give me the time to better prepare.

I'll reprint my class description here in case you haven't seen it:

"Explorations in Jazz" - A Visual and Auditory Journey Focusing within the years beginning in or about 1945 to 1965. Featuring major innovators Charlie 'Bird' Parker, Billie Holiday, Miles Davis; Thelonious Monk, John Coltrane, Wayne Shorter, Charles Mingus and many more. Through cinema and surround-sound we'll be absorbed into some of the greatest music ever to have graced the world. Emerging from Orphic imaginations and searing with brilliant melodic, rhythmic and harmonic concepts, these unequaled musicians tell us stories in languages without words, draw figures on the canvas of our minds, melt our hearts. It's America's true treasure that has arisen from our own soiled dirt; it has been my discovery and I'd love to share it with you.

What to bring: note pad and pen, seat cushion for comfort or yoga mat to stretch out on. A thermos of tea or whatever for yourself.

It will be a six-week course beginning July 13, Wednesday eves from 7-9 at the Bolinas Commons (22 Brighton Ave, 'round the back).

Suggested weekly donation, $5.00 - all proceeds will go to the FaultLine Institute, which is affiliated now with the Bolinas Commons.

You may contact me at odyssey68@gmail.com

I hope to see you there, Ananda

Dear Bolinas Community.

Happy Birthday! My birthday being the first of July, is a day of wish-making. I hope you don't mind me including you in this process.

For some time I've been dreaming of reconstructing an artistic event that took place near the town I was born, namely Koszalin, located near the Baltic Sea. Before I came to be, in a small village called Osieki, tucked between my home town and the sea — artists would gather once a year, to live and work together. Poland was still ruled by communists, but the idea of an annual plein-air was possible, and occasionally, it would produce something that transcended that time.

"The Panoramic Sea Happening" took place on August 23, 1967 in Łazy, a small town near Osieki. It was the most spectacular and complex of all of Tadeusz Kantor's happenings. Organized by only a handful of artists, it had an enormous audience among the plein-air's guests, visitors and tourists relaxing on the beach. The happening consisted of four parts: "Sea Concert," "Erotic Barbuyage," "Agrarian Culture on the Sand," and "Medusa Raft." It involved, among other things: a conductor, a row boat with rowers, a metal podium immersed in water, motorcycles, hand crank fire sirens, a rider on a white horse, black striped bathrobe, mud dancers, newspaper planting...

I shared my dream with some of you. With this letter I'd like to ask you all for your permission, support and participation in an attempt at reconstructing (or to reconstruct) "The Panoramic Sea Happening." My wish is to make it happen on Brighton Beach, one Saturday afternoon (if weather permits) at the end of August this year. I believe that such an event can produce worthwhile reflections and lasting memories. Contemplating such possibility, I'm looking forward to see all of you interested in the reconstruction of "The Panoramic Sea Happening" at a meeting I'll be hosting after my return from Poland at the beginning of August. Stay tuned.

Warmly, Pawel Kruk

Zachary Seifert-Ponce Concert
Saturday, July 9, 7:30 PM

Donations gratefully accepted Zachary Seifert-Ponce comes to the Dance Palace's Church Space stage in his debut concert as a solo classical guitarist and composer. The evening will include the works of some of Zach's favorite classical guitar music from Europe, Mexico, and South America, as well as some of his own compositions. Between pieces, Zach loves to engage the audience by sharing stories about his favorite composers, such as Manuel Ponce, Cacho Tirao, Augustin Barrios, Heitor Villa-Lobos. Zach is turning to his community for support in paying down his college debt, so he will be accepting donations of any amount at the door. Anyone who would like to donate, but cannot attend, or who would like to be a sponsor, may send an email to classicalzach@gmail.com. Visit www.classicalzach.net for more information.

HUMAN IMPACT on BOLINAS LAGOON

Bolinas Lagoon is the core of local human history, it is home to billions of organisms from microscopic to harbor seals, and an essential resource to countless generations of migrating birds. But before the arrival of Russians hunters, and Europeans and Yankee settlers, almost unimaginable numbers of animals, insects, birds and fish inhabited this primeval landscape. Native Americans lived at Bolinas for perhaps 2000 years, as equal members of a complex web of life centered around the lagoon.

Bolinas Lagoon is created by San Andreas Fault, the seam between continental North America and the geologic island of Point Reyes Peninsula. It is a remarkable confluence of unobstructed watershed, fertile land and the upwelling-enriched Pacific Ocean. Occasional earthquakes and the scouring of a robust tidal prism kept this lagoon/estuary vibrant for some 7000 years. Yet, in less than 180 years, since the introduction of agriculture and livestock about 1834, followed by logging, humans have radically impacted the lagoon's health.

By 1852 human-caused erosion allowed winter rains to wash heavy loads of sediment into the lagoon, and began affecting boat traffic and the lagoon's natural system. Since the 1870s, landfill for building and repairing a tide-resistant road around the lagoon, housing development, non-native plants, garbage dumps, pollution, and loss of habitat have further exacerbated the problems.

Marin County's vigorous environmental preservation movement began in the 1930s. When a yacht harbor with hotels and casinos was proposed for the Lagoon in the 1960s, public activism saved it. Since then, concerned citizens and scientists have been intensely searching for how we can help the health of this important and complex ecosystem.

In the 1980s, citizen groups like Bolinas Lagoon Technical Advisory committee, the Bolinas Lagoon Foundation and its ad hoc Committee to Save Bolinas Lagoon, caught the attention of national and international entities that began to recognize its importance. In 1997 the lagoon was designated a State and National Treasure, and in 1998 it was recognized by the Ramsar Convention as a wetland of international importance.

These designations brought long awaited federal support from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers who studied the lagoon, and in 2002 released a draft study proposing removal of 1.4 million ft³ of sediment. Alarmed by the impacts dredging would cause to established habitat, and opposition to what many saw as a short-term fix, public outcry spawned a Marin County review of the study and a new process for developing science-based community supported initiatives to restore and manage the lagoon.

In 2008 the Locally Preferred Plan was released and today guides Marin County and its partners toward multi-beneficial efforts that encourage natural recovery from human-caused impacts, and facilitates adaptation to future changes. Climate change threatens impact from increased storms, flooding and erosion, so projects that instill resilience are crucial.

Today several initiatives from the Locally Preferred Plan are actively addressing invasive species removal, sediment and water movement, flooding, and water quality among other issues. Projects like the Kent Island Restoration Project, and the European Green Crab Removal Project implemented by local volunteers and school groups, embody the importance of human action, not just to remedy impacts but to prevent them.

Other projects like the upcoming North End Restoration Project involving road redesign and enhanced wetland habitat will provide ecological benefits, sea level rise adaptation measures, and improve transportation and public safety.

Annual 3rd of July Benefit Cocktail Party Sunday / July 3rd / 5:30 – 7:30 PM

Celebrate the eve of the 4th of July with lively jazz / blues by local favorite The Big Skin Band, cocktails, hors d'oeuvres & happy people of all ages.

Now in its 7th year, this annual benefit event always honors a special community member. Past honorees include Annie Crofts, Dr. Marty Griffin, Vandy Seeburg, Ewan McDonald, Dolores Richards and Sally Robertson.

This year we will celebrate the memory of Mimi Griffin-Jones, a long time museum board member and friend to many in Bolinas. She was a remarkable woman, one of the first to graduate for Stanford Medical School who served women in Marin throughout her career. She and Dr. Marty Griffin loved to hike in the Sierras with their children and were passionate about the environment. (Marty Griffin led the effort that saved Bolinas Lagoon and Audubon Canyon Ranch.) After Mimi and Marty parted, she married Clint Jones and they spent much of their time in her house over Bolinas Lagoon.

Both Mimi and Clint passed in 2015. Because they loved Bolinas and the mission of the Bolinas Museum-- to preserve and share the history and creativity of our coastal Marin communities-- they gave generously to the museum. Two of Mimi's daughters presented Bolinas Museum with Mimi's astonishing gift of $140,000, which will help guarantee the future of the museum. Clint left a bequest of three historic paintings that are on display in the Permanent Collection gallery and nice financial gift.

This annual cocktail party draws a delightful mix of generations, community members and visitors. The hosts of this year's party are both Bolinas Museum board members from multi-generational Bolinas families -- Nick Nicolaus and Nancy Tully, along with her husband Herb Tully.

No reservations needed to join the festivities. Just pay at the door and join in the fun! $30 Members / $35 General Admission. Free for Kids 12 & under. ($15 of the ticket price is tax deductible). For more information visit bolinasmuseum.org
