This Week's Friday Editor interviews Next Week's Friday Editor

Michael Rafferty: OK. What's your name.
Jeff Manson: Jeff Manson

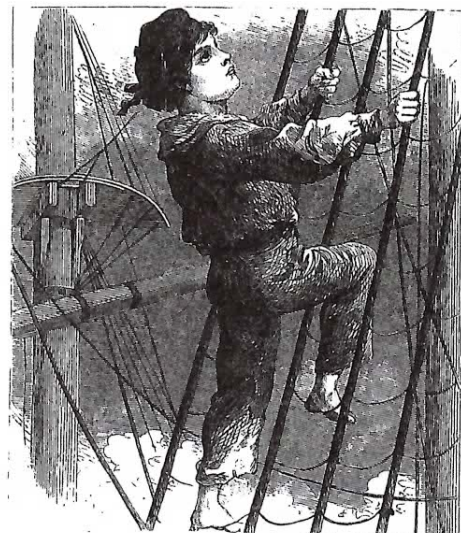

she seemed earnest enough that I pursued it a little bit, and I said, "Well, what's it about?" and she said, "Well, my folks think I'm on an overnight field trip. They don't know I'm going to be gone for six months."
Michael: That's wonderful!

Michael: When were you born?
Jeff: I was born in February of 1980.
Michael: So, you've got a birthday coming up. What day?
Jeff: February 24th. I'm a Pisces.
Michael: How old does that make you now?
Jeff: It makes me nearly 32.
Michael: Where were you born?
Jeff: In Pasadena, California.
Michael: And how many places have you lived in your life?
Jeff: I lived in Pasadena when I was born. Shortly after that moved to Melbourne, Australia; after that we moved to Virginia, where my dad finished grad school; Massachussetts; Ojai, California; and then Bolinas.
Michael: And did you live in various cities in those various places, and various houses in the various cities?
Jeff: Yes. Mainly student housing and teacher housing.
Michael: All right. When I first met you, four or five years ago, you had a very interesting job. Could you talk a little about it?
Jeff: I dressed up as a 19th Century Ship's Captain, and hosted groups of fourth-graders on a historic tall ship named the Balclutha for overnight historical immersion field trips.
Michael: That's wonderful. And they paid you for that?
Jeff: They paid me – barely.
Michael: I remember one of the things you told me was that you weren't allowed to make any of the children cry, because you were supposed to be a nasty Captain.
Jeff: That's right, although actually we frequently did end up making the children cry. One of my favorite moments of that job was when a young girl came up to me very seriously ... because, you have to remember, we never break character throughout this entire thing ... and this girl came up to me in the evening and said, "I need to call my parents." And I said to her (in a deep, growly voice), "What do you mean.... Call to them? They won't hear you from here." And she said, "No, I need to talk to my parents." And Jeff: And I told her she could write them a letter.

Michael: Oh, man. So, tell me. What other jobs have you had.
Jeff: Well, let's see. I've done a little bit of everything. I currently work at the Bolinas People's Store. And I have worked at various health food stores in different places. I worked in Oakland with adults with developmental difficulties. I have worked as a window washer. Never worked as a garbage man, although I applied for a job as a garbage man. I have worked as a bicycle mechanic. And I worked as a gallery attendant. That's the most boring job you could hope to have.
Michael: I guess it would be. Well, you're also alternate editor of the Friday Hearsay News. So you'll be on the job next Friday when I'm in Hawaii.
Jeff: There you go.
Michael: Let's see. One final question. What do you think happens to your spirit when you die?
Jeff: Oh, that's a great question. I think it becomes immediately subsumed into the mass of all spirits of all living things and reshuffled. So I believe in reincarnation in a way, but I don't think it's a one to one situation. You may get reincarnated as a forest, or something.
Michael: Thank you.

Editor to the Sandwich Islands

The Bolinas Book Exchange will close from January 19 through January 26 while I am in Hawaii. Please do not donate books during that time. They will only be ruined by the weather. While there, I will be posting the Hearsay News Online from Hawaii, thanks to Jeff Manson and Belle Woods, who will be sending the pdf's to me via email. Thank you for your forbearance. Thanks.

"No. 62. Stand still, count to ten, slowly walk toward painting, stop, lean forward, count to ten, step backward twelve paces, cross your arms, stroke your chin, count to fifteen. Put your hands behind your back, step forward five paces, nod your head and smile, and move on to No. 63."

ALL JOKING ASIDE, "Fresh Paint", now showing at the Bolinas Gallery, will take you on a journey through thick and thin. Two excellent, well known abstract painters, Rob Setrakian and Dennis Hare, feature contrasting styles: Dennis building up his surface with heavy layers of paint and collage elements, and Rob preferring a more lyrical, atmospheric approach. Both impressive artists, widely shown.

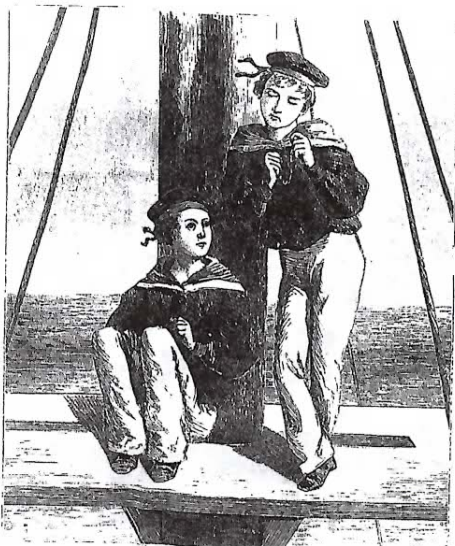

Saturdays & Sundays, 12-5.
Reception to be announced.

READING TO JOHN

On Tues. 1/17 at 10 a.m. on KWMR (89.9) I'll read Colette's short story, "Green Sealing Wax." While written many years ago, the depiction of the nature of a 15 year old girl (its narrator) is spot on, which I can verify from hanging out with my adolescent granddaughter. I'll also tell the mystical and grisly fairy tale, "The Girl With No Hands" by the Brothers Grimm and share my delight in the recent play, "The Wild Bride," which it's based on.

GEORGE WINSTON

Saturday, January 14, 8 PM

Tickets: $32, $30 seniors, $15 teens

George Winston grew up mainly in Montana, and also spent his later formative years in Mississippi and Florida. During this time, his favorite music was instrumental rock and instrumental R&B, including Floyd Cramer, the Ventures, Booker T & the MGs, Jimmy Smith, and many more. Inspired by R&B, jazz, blues, and rock (especially The Doors), George began playing organ in 1967. In 1971 he switched to the acoustic piano after hearing recordings from the 1920s and the 1930s by the legendary stride pianists Thomas "Fats" Waller and the late Teddy Wilson. In addition to working on stride piano, he also at this time came up with his own style of melodic instrumental music on solo piano, called "folk piano." His latest solo piano release is "Love Will Come—The Music of Vince Guaraldi, Vol. 2" (released 2/2/10), which features compositions by the late jazz pianist, including pieces from the Peanuts® TV specials.
