Bolinas tax maintains safe spaces

Nudge

Here's a surprising story from the San Diego International Airport. For 10 non-consecutive days, signs were posted at the bottom of a set of stairs and escalators urging people to take the stairs. The signs read: 'Please reserve the escalator for those who need it', or 'Don't lose time, lose weight. Use the Stairs', or 'Don't waste Time, trim your Waistline. Use the Stairs', or 'You'll get more stares if you use the stairs', or 'If you want to feel younger, act younger. Step it up! Use the stairs.' On alternating days there were no signs posted.

Researchers from the San Diego State University counted how many people took the stairs versus the escalator the days with and without the signs, and also interviewed people atop the stairs about their health and level of physical activity. The research was headed by John Bellettiere, at UC San Diego, who is working on ways to help people sit less and move more. On days when one of the signs was present, about twice as many people took the stairs compared to a no-sign day. An important finding was that people who never exercised also used the stairs. People used the stairs even if they were in a rush and carrying luggage. Bellettiere concluded that having even a small amount of exercise early in the day may lead to getting more later. When people see others taking the stairs they are more likely to do so themselves, creating a ripple effect.

Social science research has shown that there are many ways we can be 'nudged' into acting in ways that may be positive, or negative, for our well being. Some utility companies get people to conserve power by sending out comparison notices, telling people how their use compares to others in the area who are using less. This is a carefully designed strategy encouraging people to use less energy, and it has been successful. If we believe other people are doing the right thing, we will want to do so also. The approach originates from the sociological concept of social norms, which holds that group members will respond to appropriate - or inappropriate - values and behaviors held by others in their group. The recent Nobel Prize winner in Economics, Richard Thaler, wrote about these ideas in a book with Cass Sunstein - titled Nudge. They consider their concepts to be from neither left nor right on many hot button issues, since a nudge does not restrict freedom of choice.

Be on the lookout for ways you are being subtly nudged by the culture around you. Candy at the checkout counter at Safeway. Signs urging you to walk up the stairs. Wait a minute - that's a good one. Think of ways you can nudge yourself in a beneficial direction to exercise more. Form a walking group; tell your friends what you plan to do; pay money to join a gym; write signs in your house that will inspire you to move, eat healthy food, or reach out to friends. Sadja Greenwood Back issues at sadjascolumns.blogspot.com

OPINION

BY MARK LUCANIC

This November, Bolinas residents will vote on Measure F, a parcel tax that provides critical funding for Bolinas parks. Measure F seeks to renew the current tax at the same rate (no increase) for another four years.

I am a member of the all-volunteer Firehouse Community Park Agency, also known as the Mesa Park board of directors. As the vote approaches, I want to provide a brief history of our parks, highlight the facilities, including recent improvements, and review our current and historical funding situation for both long-time and newer voters.

Bolinas is known for its natural beauty, proximity to the Point Reyes National Seashore and its small beach adjacent to its modest downtown. While Bolinas offers ample outdoor recreational space, the community historically lacked recreation areas for organized sporting activities. To remedy this community deficiency, in 1985 two public agencies operating in the village—the Bolinas-Stinson Union School District and the Bolinas Community Public Utility District—exercised a joint powers agreement to create a new agency charged with providing community recreational opportunities. Thus the Firehouse Community Park Agency was created and set to work establishing and developing recreational facilities at Mesa Park.

Since its formation, the Mesa Park board has directed the installment and maintenance of soccer, baseball and softball fields used as home fields by our children's soccer and baseball leagues. These are the only ball fields available to the community, other than a single small multipurpose field on the Bolinas School campus, which has restricted availability.

Mesa Park also maintains two playgrounds, one over sand for toddlers and another over wood chips with swings, slides, a teeter-totter and other features to entertain older children. These playgrounds are the only such publicly available structures in town.

Mesa Park is also home to a basketball court and the only skate park in West Marin. More recently, Mesa Park installed plumbed bathrooms and drinking fountains, the former replacing long-serving portable units. These improvements have fueled increased usage by community members. The park hosts children's birthday parties, community fundraisers and soccer and little league baseball games.

Thanks to the generosity of a local philanthropist, we acquired the Downtown Park (formerly called Burnt Park) in 2007. Downtown Park, designed and implemented by community members, is now a symbol of our community spirit. The park provides well-maintained green space for community gatherings as well as a publicly available cob oven for community baking, while maintaining open space in an increasingly occupied downtown area.

Though Mesa Park was born out of the joint powers act of the utility and school districts, no mechanism was provided at its inception for funding this new entity. The parcel tax, which taxes each improved parcel in town $49 annually, provides this crucial support.

Our board will continue to work toward securing the county funds and federal block grants that have facilitated our large improvement projects, including installing the sports fields, building the bathrooms and upgrading the skate park and playgrounds.

While we continue this work, we rely on the parcel tax to fund our insurance obligations and the basic services that maintain our lush playing fields, provide clean bathrooms and keep the play spaces safe.

Please continue to support Bolinas parks. Every vote counts. Vote yes on Measure F.

WHAT HAPPENED THIS WEEK is not happening this week. 10-16-17 Week in Review Recap, Monday Morning Memo from Jennie Pfeiffer, is on hiatus until the 868 + Directory is printed in November.

So please send in your correction, additions, or business ads ASAP, to 868hearsay@gmail.com, or to jenniepfeifferR@gmail.com with instructions as to whether you want email addresses and cell phone numbers added. Ad prices are $20 for a business card size ad, $30 for a quarter page ad, $50 for a half page ad, and $100 for a full page ad. Two line listings are free.

Also want to say how thankful I am for all the firefighting and helpful assistance from people all over the Bay Area in response to the North County fires. It is an incredible tragedy and people have opened their hearts and their homes to those who lost everything. I'm hearing that the largest and longest running fires are now up to 50% contained. There are still many of the 18 plus fires burning, so please be careful out there. We are so lucky here in our little town.

In spite of poor air quality some happy events in town did happen. Friday night's farewell party for Emma Lee at the Community Center was a happy/sad event: sad because we'll miss her, happy because of the music of Emma Lee and her friends - Dave Polo, PSDSP -- was outstanding, and also because Chloe's Kauai Style wraps were delicious. Such a night! All best, and Aloha 'Oe to Emma Lee. We will look forward to visits from you in the future.

Saturday afternoon was the opening of exquisite ocean photographic works by Ethan Okamura at the Commonweal gallery space. So Beautiful! Such perfect capturing of the magical ocean foam! I recommend it highly.

Saturday evening was a bodacious birthday celebration at the Tacherra Ranch of three Bolinas stalwarts, Susan and Jim Tacherra, and Lorelei Morris with a total of 210 years between them! Wishing them all a healthy, happy new year.

And now, to bed! The ash and smoke have me down, so I will be wheezing and sneezing and convalescing. P.O.R. jp

THREE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

- Big blow-out birthday bash at Tacherra Ranch, Saturday night—what a feed!
- Playing Irish tunes for fire refugees, first at the Coast Café, then up at Vladimir's.
- Friday's 'Farewell EmmaLee' party at the Community Center. She will be missed hugely.

IT'S "BACK TO SCHOOL" TIME.

Bolinas-Stinson School buses and students are back on the roads. Students are frequently walking along the side of the road, riding their bikes and waiting for buses

Please watch carefully for children near school buildings, in areas where school buses are traveling or where there are signs for school zones or bus stops.

Remember that if you are approaching a school bus from either the front or behind, and its yellow lights are flashing, the bus is preparing to stop.

If the buses red lights are flashing, YOU MUST STOP for the safety of the children & because it's the law!

This includes school buses that are:

- on the opposite sides of divided highways,
- on multiple lane roadways,
- in parking lots,
- on school grounds.

NOTE: Extra CHP and Sherriff patrols have been requested on the road by the Stinson Beach Campus
