DANNY VITALI & BRIAN LAIDLAW

Local musician, Danny Vitali, and Minneapolis-based songwriter, Brian Laidlaw with a grant from the Minnesota State Arts Board are producing a new album called Echolalia. The album re-imagines the myth of Echo and Narcissus in the mining town of Hibbing, Minnesota, and draws inspiration from the high-school relationship that took place there between Bob Dylan and Echo Helstrom (a.k.a. "The Girl From the North Country"). With Laidlaw's incisive lyrics and Vitali's expansive musical arrangements, the duo's sound has echoes of Simon and Garfunkel, Leonard Cohen, and of course, Dylan himself. Vitali, a former resident of Hibbing, has been making music with Laidlaw for the last two years; this will be their second album together. The album is set for release this winter, this is a very special pre-release performance.

SPIRIT HOUSE

It's the time of year to gather together 7 people who are willing to tend the Spirit House for 2013. Each tender cleans and decorates the space about every two months. The space is tended every week including providing flowers or a centerpiece and watering the living plants and tree there. This is a great gift to ourselves and the community. Call June @ 9052 or email me at junemcadams@gmail.com if you are able to be part of this team. Thanks, June McAdams

THREE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

- (1) Last Friday's Barn Dance—high quality caller and dance band, great food, wonderful energy on the dance floor. This one of the great events of the year.
- (2) The We Help Eachother Cabaret Evening, to raise some money to help cover Mary & Magi's health care expenses. Local talent mobilizes to help friends.
- (3) One blessed ordinary Sunday: breakfast potatoes in the morning sun, some household chores, Church of Sunday soccer, family night burritos and sauna.

JOHN DOSS, MD, RIP

If anyone has some stories/memories of John they'd like to share in Wednesday's paper, please do submit them (by 1030 Weds morn). I suspect there are a lot of tales about/by him folks might like to read. He was something of a legend in his own time, after all. -Thanks,

TO THE BOLINAS COMMUNITY:

Ilka Hartmann is having double hip surgery in November. For when she is out of the hospital I'm hoping several families/people would be willing & able to cook her a meal in a dish or two that can be frozen/heated up easily. If you want to, please call me, Martha Wax, 306-1231, and leave your number & name. Thank you so much!

Burglary spree ends in arrest of Oakland man

A spree of burglaries in the last week across West Marin has left law enforcement trying to tie two unsolved incidents to a suspect arrested Monday in relation to a burglary at Diekmann's General Store in Tomles, authorities said Tuesday.

Tyrone Brennen, 27, of Oakland, was arrested Monday night after a deputy patrolling the area saw him walking down the Tomales-Petaluma Road. He appeared "exhausted, tired, wet and muddy," Marin County Lieutenant Doug Pittman said.

He was booked on suspicion of burglarizing Diekmann's earlier that morning, and authorities suspect he is responsible for burglaries at Woodacre Country Market and Don's Bolinas Liquor Store. A "fruitful" search by investigators with the Sonoma and Marin County Sheriff's Offices for a white BMW driven by Mr. Brennen revealed incriminating evidence linking the suspect to other burglarized stores, Lt. Pittman said.

The burglar entered Diekmann's by carefully removing a pane of glass—a similar method of intrusion investigators noticed at the Woodacre Market. There, it wasn't until sometime after the owner reported the theft of $10,000 from a safe while opening the store on November 1 that he noticed a window pane was missing.

A day later, the owner of Don's Liquor reported $5,000 missing from a hiding place below the cash register. The suspect entered through a hole cut in the wall at the rear of the store, shopkeeper Mam Stephen said.

A 20-hour pursuit of Mr. Brennen led to a ranch in Tomales, around which a coalition of Marin and Sonoma County Sheriff's Office officials, Novato and Mill Valley police, highway patrol, federal park rangers and Coast Guard police, which manned a helicopter, established a perimeter to try to flush out the suspect. The search was called off at around 5 p.m.

Eight charges of commercial burglary were filed this week by the Sonoma County District Attorney's Office against Mr. Brennen, whose episode of burglaries began in August. "We're happy that we got him," Lt. Pittman said. "He was a threat to the community." He added, referring to his law enforcement personnel: "Like the Giants, we seem to have a win-win going on right now."

Bolinas Stinson Beach Holiday Open Studios

Thanksgiving Weekend,
Friday Saturday & Sunday November 23, 24 & 25

It has become a tradition for artists of Bolinas and Stinson Beach to open their studios Thanksgiving Weekend, and this year is no exception. 27 artists working in a variety of media, including painting, ceramics, sculpture, watercolor, textiles, and furniture, will participate. Signs will guide visitors to the various studios, and maps and directions are included in an illustrated brochure.

The perfect opportunity to get to know your local artists and neighbors.

Lagoon News: Please note that Friday, November 16th, 9 AM at the Bolinas Firehouse will be the first meeting of the newly formed Bolinas Lagoon Advisory Council (BOLAC).

This new Marin County Supervisor's Committee replaces the 40 year old Bolinas Lagoon Technical Advisory Committee (BLTAC). Some things about the old BLTAC were good, some not so good. Logically and optimistically, we hope to preserve the good parts and let the bad parts go by the wayside.

Both Ralph Camiccia and I hope that there will be a good turnout for this important structural change to Lagoon management. In particular, we and all other local representatives on the new Council are concerned that we preserve the strength of our voices for present and future Lagoon management issues and decisions.

It's an important subject—not only for Bolinas—but for all of us in the Lagoon Communities. If you have questions, please feel free to call Rudi Ferris 868-0762, RuFerris@msn.com or Ralph Camiccia, 868-0528, rjc.bolinas@sbcglobal.net

Thanks, Rudi Ferris

MOSTLY MEETINGS & MISCELLANY

Monday Morning Recap & Week in Review 11/12/12
From Jenniepeiffer

IT'S BEEN A BUSY WEEK. Tuesday's elections put Obama back in the Whitehouse, a record 20 women elected to the Senate (getting closer to equal representation, but still a good ways to go before getting to the 50% mark), which is still firmly in the control of the Democrats, and the House is still in Republican control, though seems they lost some seats. Hopefully, they can learn to negotiate. I personally am happy to report that ALL those lawmakers that made outrageous and ill informed/ignorant comments about women and rape and pregnancy, were voted out of office! To my way of thinking, that is as it should be. If a person is going to be making laws that so severely affect a woman's life, that lawmaker needs to become informed by checking in with women, and that should be the same for elders, the poor, minorities, mobility impaired, etc.

There are still votes being verified and counted on some measures, specifically measure E, the Mesa Park election. It got majority support, but needs 2/3 majority, which is still too close to call before all the absentee and provisional ballots are counted. There was a snafu with voting, in that a new "polling" place was established, that being the post office for mail in ballots. Many residents were notified that they would be needing to vote absentee, but they didn't receive their ballots, so they had to use a provisional ballot. That is the way one votes if not on the rolls when getting to the polls. It requires verification of registration before those votes are counted. There are usually under a dozen of those in Bolinas, but for this election, there were 40 - a record number. Because of the verification necessity, those ballots will not be posted until this Friday. That will be when we know the official outcome of measure E.

There were many wonderful community events this weekend, starting Friday night with the school sponsored Barn Dance. It was a great night, with chili or veggie soup choice dinner and desserts; scare crow auction; and prizes for best square dance outfits, which went to Marius Salone and his mom, Danielle, and to Mirta Guzman. Midnight on the Water played to accompany dinner, and a demonstration waltz performed by the middle school students. Then Evie Ladin, a square dance calling pro from the East Bay, got the dance sets going for real - turning chaos into some sort of version of order, to the tunes of the Clod Hoppers - a fun night.

Saturday started badly for our household, the morning greeting me with a toilet overflow, making me a bit nervous about what sort of a day it would be. I headed down to host the 2nd Saturday Sale, and immediately broke a light switch and spilled a box of tacks. Did manage to get set up, and with the addition of some great items from June McAdams and StuArt, we successfully sailed through the sale. Next month, the 2nd Sat. will be on the 4th Saturday because Holiday Winter Faire will be on the 2nd Sat, and the World Crafts Faire will be the next weekend, so we will be after that - the LAST CHANCE TO BUY HOLIDAY GIFTS - giving you lots of time to get your wares there.

The day ended much better that it started, as Saturday night was a FABULOUS night of music to benefit the recuperative needs of Mary Barror. It was wonderful to see her back out after her setback, and it was great to be reminded yet again how many fine musicians we have in town. If you couldn't get there, you can still offer a financial contribution for her. Check at the Center.

Yesterday was the unveiling of StuArt's painting "Peace, Love, Bolinas" which I was intending to head to the Newtown park to see, but it fell out of my head. I →
