RHIANNON—MOUTH MAGIC

Eighteen singers from around the planet join Rhiannon for an evening of vocal improvisation and song. These singers are part of a year-long course called "All The Way In" moving from Hawaii to Point Reyes to Montreal with teaching and performance in each spot. Because Rhiannon was a resident of Inverness and Point Reyes for 20 years, she loves to return and bring singers with her to experience the community and creativity of West Marin. Join her for this musical event with local guests and singing for all.

EAC ANNUAL MEMBERS MEETING AND POTLUCK

The Environmental Action Committee of West Marin's annual potluck dinner, general meeting, wine tasting, and gab fest has become a renowned summer celebration for West Marin's principal grassroots environmental organization. This year's event promises to uphold the tradition, featuring the fare of West Marin's best chefs, the latest news from the eco-front, and the presentation of EAC's Peter Behr Steward of the Land Award.

Words cannot express the overwhelming joy of seeing so many gardening hands and minds and hearts spending Bloomsday working together to plant and beautify at the heart of downtown Bolinas the former eyesore that was burnt park.

Alethea Patton and Eat Dog along with Roger Peacock, Angela Vernon, Jack Seidman, Michael Moritz, Zoe Gardner, and John Glavis, all of whom see the big picture, were there all day to pay attention to the details. What a wonderful day it was, with perhaps 200 or more local citizens in waves planting trees, bushes, and shrubs. From my vantage point, Steve Wrenn dug several of the biggest holes while all around him in a beehive of digging and planting and watering, a colorful swarm of hundreds of local gardeners, some for short periods of time, others dogged and determined staying until the bitter end, swirled over the local landscape and joined in the massive effort to claim and beautify our new downtown park. Breugel joined hands with Grant Wood in my mind's eye to focus my appreciation of the swirling diggers, planters, and waterers, many of whom I did not know, while the many I did, including, Ashley, and Al, and Domiano, and Samira, and Ned, and Pam, and Trudy, and even my brother Mark and many others worked together on a common vision of beauty. Put these two pictures together, and the combination would look a little like what I saw. Thank you for the vision, everyone. — Michael Rafferty

Go to Health: GMO labeling, the Farm Bill, & anti-cancer herbs and spices

In November we will be voting on a referendum requiring that all genetically engineered foods be labeled. If it passes, California will be the first state to require such labeling on packaging. Citizens in Europe, Japan and other countries (almost 50 in all) have access to such knowledge. This is an historic occasion for voters – you should know that companies such as Dow and Monsanto will put up a strong campaign against the referendum, and may sue the state if it passes, as they threatened to do in Vermont, where a legislative bill for labeling did not make it out of committee.

The referendum is important because 'superweeds' have developed in response to the herbicide 'Roundup' (glyphosate). The result has been heavier spraying of the Roundup Ready corn and soybeans that have been genetically modified to withstand such spraying. About 90% of soybeans and 70% of corn and cotton grown in the US are Roundup Ready crops. Additionally, Dow Chemical has asked for USDA approval of a type of corn that can withstand spraying by 2,4D (a defoliant similar to 2,4T used in Agent Orange in Vietnam war days). Many large-scale farmers in the Midwest approve of Dow's new crops, saying that resistant weeds have become a crisis and without new chemical approaches, farmers would have to plow more and thereby increase soil erosion. On the other hand, Sweden, Norway and Denmark have banned the use of 2,4D, because of toxicity to workers (central nervous system symptoms, dermatitis, possible long term effects on the children of women exposed in pregnancy, and possible increase in lymphomas). Farmers who do not use GMO crops fear genetic drift from the altered plants' pollen, and also drift of the herbicides used.

This is clearly a complicated question, and we will hear a great deal about it in the run-up to the November election. Here is another reason to exercise your right to vote!

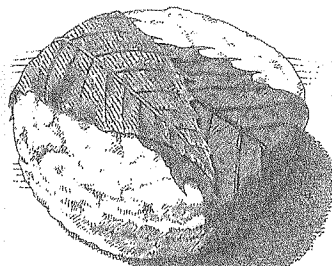

The US Senate is currently considering the 2012 Farm Bill. Senator Kirsten Gillibrand (D-NY) is opposing a $4.5 billion cut from food stamps, which will then be opposed in the House of Representatives where a majority of Republicans have said they want deep cuts in food stamps. In addition, she wants to help markets that sell fresh produce in areas where it is not available, and encourage the creation of insurance for specialty crops such as apples and onions. To take action on Gillibrand's amendment that would restore cuts from nutrition programs and redirect $500 million to healthy food programs, you can call Lynn Woolsey (415-507-9554), Senator Boxer (415-403-0100) and Senator Feinstein (415-393-0707). Senators Bernie Sanders (D-Vermont) and Barbara Boxer (D-California) have introduced an amendment requiring GMO foods to be labeled nationwide. Call Senator Boxer about this as well, if you agree with such labeling.

I have just returned from a nutrition conference put on by the Center for Mind-Body Medicine. One of the speakers on cancer was Jeanne Wallace, who also spoke here at Commonweal last year with chef Rebecca Katz. Wallace listed the top 10 foods to block angiogenesis – the growth of new blood vessels that encourage cancer growth. They are:

- *Spices – especially curry, ginger, garlic, parsley
- *Berries – all types
- *Green tea
- *Parsley, peppermint, thyme
- *Curry (turmeric, coriander, cumin)
- *Garlic
- *Brazil nuts – for the selenium
- *Cold-water fish/ Grass fed meat - for the omega-3 fatty acids
- *Traditional soy foods (edamame, tempeh, tofu, plain soy milk)
- *Peanuts (boiled), red grapes/wine (resveratrol)

I will write more about this conference in future columns. In the meantime, if you eat, be a food activist!

CORRECTION

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

In the most recent Friday Hearsay News, I inserted several photographs of Bolinas activities and reprinted them without acknowledgement from the West Marin Citizen of June 14. The photographs were: 1) a beautiful picture of Tom D'Onofrio in full regalia holding a baby up to be blessed, 2) a charming group shot of Kathleen, StuArt, Suzie (I think), Maji, and Jerrund on the beach making music at the Floating Sun Festival, and 3) a lovely photograph of this year's graduating class standing with their teachers at the Bolinas/Stinson school. I regret my failure to acknowledge the source, and promise to try to do better in the future.

— Michael Rafferty

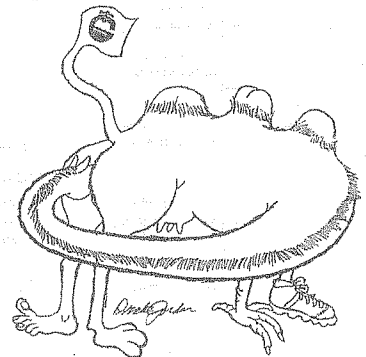

I was thinking today about Drake Jordan's passing, and I wanted to share this with the community. I remember him fondly. He was my next-door neighbor for awhile. He was, understandably, a little grumpy at times with his health issues, but with a very sharp mind and keen wit.

Regarding this cartoon:

Several years ago, at a meeting of the BCPUD's traffic committee, Drake had given all present a copy of a cartoon he had drawn on the subject, and it has been on my wall ever since. I think it gives a clear visual representation of his opinion of the BCPUD board's particular form of "consensus building" on that day. I've attached it as a pdf file.

Thanks, Drake, and rest in peace.

Art Plus Life

June 23 - September 21, 2012

Opening Reception:

Saturday, June 23 • 3-5 PM

Bob Demmerle, Linda Gass,
Mary Daniel Hobson, Elizabeth Jameson
Daigan Lueck, Maud Zimmer

The exhibition, ART PLUS LIFE at Commonweal Gallery shows a range of innovative art in painting, sculpture, photography and mixed media by six major Bay Area artists whose work and creative process are motivated by healing the self, the society or the environment.

Bob Demmerle and Maud Zimmer have created new site-specific sculpture for the Commonweal Gallery. Mary Daniel Hobson shows photographs from her body painting series, Daigan Lueck, a Zen priest, poet and painter shows mixed media works that include acrylic on canvas, found wire and objects from the Green Gulch Farm where he has lived for the past 20 years. Elizabeth Jameson converges science and art in the study of the human brain through the use of magnetic resonance images. Linda Gass focuses on water and the environment resulting in colorful and complex wall hangings.

The artists were invited to create work for the exhibition by curators Jacqueline Mallegni, Commonweal Gallery and Claudia Chapline, co-sponsor for Art at the Cheese Factory, a non-profit organization that sponsors site-specific installations in Marin County.

The public is invited to the opening reception on Saturday, June 23 from 3-5 PM.

The artists and curators will be present.

THREE MORE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

- (1) Most of the town turning out to help put in the plantings in the new downtown park. Many hands, light work.
- (2) How many towns would stage a sidewalk celebration complete with food and music and speeches, to mark the raising of extra funds to extend the library hours?
- (3) A sunny, still Father's Day and beloved kinfolk to share it with.
