George Winston returns with "The Summer Show," a solo piano concert. The evening will include melodic spring and summer songs, some of Vince Guaraldi's "Peanuts" pieces, music inspired by the New Orleans and stride piano traditions, and songs from his upcoming albums. Since 1972, Winston has released thirteen solo piano albums. His latest releases are "Love Will Come—The Music Of Vince Guaraldi, Volume 2 (2010)," and "Gulf Coast Blues & Impressions 2—A Louisiana Wetlands Benefit (2012)." Please join George in support of our local food bank by bringing a donation of canned food to the concert. Collection baskets will be at the entrance. Saturday, August 6, 8:00pm
Tickets $35 in advance / $40 at the door

"Explorations in Jazz" - Second in Series of Six

We'll jump right in to more early Miles Davis and will follow his career throughout my series, as he happened to be one of, if not the, primary leader of directional changes for the entire throng of jazz players for several decades. I'll introduce Art Blakey and Horace Silver, Drummer and Pianist/composer respectively, who formed the group named The Jazz Messengers in the 1950's. They amicably split to head two schools which spawned many famous players in the years to come. I'll show as many videos of live performances as I can find, and play some of my favorite recordings. Drop on down to the Bolinas Commons/FaultLine Institute — and tune in to some great sounds that you may have never heard before. Bring your yoga mat if you like, nice to listen lying down, with eyes closed. Wednesday eve 7-9pm 22 Brighton Ave. behind the bookstore. $5 donation requested Ananda

Bolinas community land trust hires new director

By Samantha Kimmey

The Bolinas Community Land Trust has hired Jerry Bernstein, a 77-year-old former businessman and nonprofit executive from Mill Valley, as its new executive director, after longtime head Lesa Kramer left at the end of 2014. "I like the idea of nonprofits and giving back, but I'm not kumbaya," he said. "I'm a businessman. What I bring to the table is business experience." Mr. Bernstein graduated from Stanford Law School in the '60s but gave up the field after a brief stint in New York. He founded and ran a business in Silicon Valley that offered support services for semiconductor companies, and worked as a chief operating officer for San Francisco's LightHouse for the Blind. He says he boosted that organization's liquid assets from $19 million to $200 million and doubled its net worth. At the end of 2014, he retired, but it didn't quite suit him. "On about January 15, I thought, 'This is the worst decision I've ever made. I've got to get a job,'" he said. Mr. Bernstein had some strict parameters: he wanted a part-time, dog-friendly position, so he could bring his Border Collie, and he was searching for an organization that "didn't care about me being 77 years old." Still, he said he turned down a handful of job offers before coming across the land trust's call for a new leader. "I think this is the perfect job for me... I really like the board, and they needed a businessman." The position, which he took in March, has taught him a lot about West Marin—primarily how unique each community is. He has also learned about Bolinas's shrinking affordable housing stock. It's a tough problem, he says, considering how much money property owners can make on short-term rentals, but he said the land trust is working on one second-unit project that will hopefully be done this year. "I think the answer to affordable housing in Marin is a little help from the government and a lot of help from the residents," he said.

BOLINAS FIRE PROTECTION DISTRICT BOARD OF DIRECTORS SEAT OPENINGS

Violence vs. Nonviolence for Social Justice

Dear Bolinas Neighbors,

We have all experienced the emotional impact of violence. It has been the subject of national and worldwide media, especially in the last few weeks. Many of us believe in social justice, but the media focusses more on violent acts than the message we want to convey.

I hope that in these next two weeks and forthcoming months, we all note and embrace the words of my mentor, Cesar E. Chavez:

“Non-violence is not inaction. It is not discussion. It is not for the timid or weak... Non-violence is hard work. It is the willingness to sacrifice. It is the patience to win....There is no such thing as defeat in non-violence....In some cases non-violence requires more militancy than violence.”

“Once social change begins, it cannot be reversed. You cannot uneducate the person who has learned to read. You cannot humiliate the person who feels pride. You cannot oppress the people who are not afraid anymore. We have seen the future, and the future is ours.”

Thank you,

This November there will be an election that will be held on the 8th day of November 2016 at which the election issue to present to the voters shall be:

To elect members of the governing body of the Bolinas Fire Protection District.
Three regular 4 year term seats are up for election in November.

The District is interested in members who are committed to maintaining the safety of the community. Board meetings are one evening per month plus additional committee meetings. The volunteer positions offer opportunities to set District policy, participate in local government and provide a much needed community service. No prior experience on elected boards is required.

Candidates shall be registered voters.

Before a Board member may enter into the duties of his/her office, he/she must subscribe to the Oath of Office.

If you are interested in becoming a Board member of the Bolinas Fire Protection District, please contact the Fire Department at 415-868-1566 or the County of Marin Register of Voters at 415-499-6456.

David Gleason's psalms

The Lord leadeth me to find a green pasture and to lie down with sunshine and wild flowers.

She asketh me to find the pure Water.

She asketh me to share this dream with all of the people and animals and plants.

In Every Living Thing. Selah

And the Lord sayeth: We fouleth our own nest. We destroy forests. We pollute the waters. We darken the pure air. We create garbage and waste.

Haven't we a care for our children?

It's time for the Elite 400 to go on a diet. No more money. Let those corporate profits and bonuses go for land in common to grow organic vegetables and pasture raised eggs. Let the people of India be Monsanto free. Let clean water be the right of all people. No GMO

Let leaders gather together in a university hospital with free care to all who would come and free education to all who would learn to heal.

Let this be paid for by the tithing of our military which has caused such destruction upon the earth.

Let us also learn to heal that earth.
Glory to the Creator

BOLINAS PORTRAITS

By Angela Rollins

About 35 years ago when she was a young girl, Angela Rollins took classes at the BPUD DARKROOM where I was teaching. She went around with her camera and photographed her friends and scenes which caught her eye. She then painstakingly developed the prints. After graduation from the Bolinas School, she continued studying photography at Tam High. All these years, through the travels of her life, she carefully protected her work, which was archivally processed. It is now up on the Post Office wall. I am proud of my student!

NICASIO

West Marin village residents to receive broadband service

By Mark Prado
mprado@marinij.com
@MarkPradoJ on Twitter

Nicasio, welcome to the 21st century.

The residents of the unincorporated rural village in West Marin that has been bedeviled by a frustrating history with web connections, are beneficiaries of the first state grant for a fiber-to-home broadband network in Marin.

The California Public Utilities Commission this week awarded a $1.5 million grant to Inyo Networks Inc., of Vallejo, which will develop a fiber optic network in conjunction with the Nicasio Landowners Association. Inyo and the association plan to raise an additional $994,000 for network construction.

There will be no up-front installation costs for service, but internet connections for the new Nicasio Gigabit Network are expected to cost $89 a month, according to the Public Utilities Commission. Service may be ready to roll by the end of 2017.

"This is the important first step in bringing true digital equity to rural West Marin," said Supervisor Steve Kinsey in a statement. "We have a plan to aggressively move ahead to find financing and continued local support for other broadband-challenged communities along the coast. With Nicasio now underway, we can move ahead."

Nicasio, primarily a farming and ranching community, has about 250 residences spread across a wide area. Nicasio School, the Nicasio Fire Department, a church, a Druids hall and other small businesses

"This is the important first step in bringing true digital equity to rural West Marin."

— Steve Kinsey

will have opportunities to benefit from the new broadband service as well, according to county officials.

Fiber connectivity linking the new network to the outside world will be provided by carrier Zayo Group of Boulder, Colorado, which installed optical fiber to Skywalker and Big Rock ranches in Lucas Valley for the digital production needs of Lucasfilm in 2014. Once the matching funding is secured and environmental clearances are met, construction workers will extend the fiber optic cables from the Lucasfilm facilities out to Nicasio, a distance of 3.5 miles.

The Public Utilities Commission authorized Marin to join the regional broadband consortium with Mendocino, Napa and Sonoma counties in July 2014. Before then, a county task force registered seven West Marin communities — Bolinas, Dillon Beach, Inverness, Nicasio, Point Reyes Station, Muir Beach, and Stinson Beach — for priority funding by the state for broadband investment.

Now that the Public Utilities Commission's first Marin grant has been issued, county officials will lobby for continuation of the program to support the remaining West Marin communities waiting for state network dollars.

WHAT HAPPENED THIS WEEK
 7/18/16 Monday Morning Recap from Jenniefeiffer

Sending a big "thankyou" to Justin and Mia Caron, Jesse McCollum, Chloe Dancer, and Emma Lee, for promoting this event, and to all the many people who joined in for Saturday's "Stop the World for a minute of Love" Project. It happened right at 5:00 pm CA time and included over a thousand people from Hawaii all across this vast country to Canada and many places around the world. It was a major success and it felt really good.

In light of the latest devastation in Nice, France, this was a much needed moment. It brought together so many people who at that very minute, shared some love.

People who commit acts of violence are usually those who have not felt loved and have lived with rage and violence. To stop the perpetuation of the violence, it is so necessary to turn the rage around and bring in some loving concern for each other and our world.

Stopping for a minute, maybe once a day, to concentrate on all the things we love feels good, especially if it's happening with people all over the world at the same moment.

This project will be continuing, so if you are interested you can find out more information at #oneminuteforlove...

And thinking of things to love, I love what's happening at Bolinas Commons. I really miss participating in the Uniquities partnership, so I'm happy there is fresh enthusiasm for Community happening in that spot at 22 Brighton. I saw the movie RAM Thursday night and was happy to have a place to see interesting off mainstream films with others looking for that as well. It's nice for Faultline Institute to have a home, and I'm looking forward to the Random Rummage sale the end of the month. Love, love, love. jp
