-- NOTICE --

Calling all consumers! I was inspired by One of Di fi's pieces at the book exchange show a couple months back lamenting on the fact that the stickers that come on our produce are non-compostable and non-recyclable. The thought occurred to me as I was sticking stickers to a piece of paper on the fridge, what if I constructed an art piece using these stickers. So I'm asking all you fruit vegetable eating folk Who feel so inclined, to save your stickers by sticking them to a piece of paper, cover the paper with the stickers! Overlapping is definitely OK! And then When you have a whole sheet or two; call, text or email me and I'll pick it up. Thanks! Kale 415-259-9238 eklikover@gmail.com

COMMONWEAL PRESENTS:

The Biology of Wonder: Aliveness, Feeling, and the Metamorphosis of Science

Wednesday August 17, 3 pm - 4:30 pm
Commonweal. RSVP - 0970

Join TNS Host Steve Heilig in conversation with Andreas Weber, a Berlin-based biologist, book and magazine writer and independent scholar. Andreas' work has focused on a re-evaluation of our understanding of the living, and the disconnection between humans and nature, arguably the root cause of most of the environmental catastrophes unravelling around us.

Explorations in Jazz – Nina Simone

For the last in my series, I'd like to present the docu-film, "What happened, Miss Simone?" The title comes from a question asked by Maya Angelou and is answered in one word by Nina herself: "America!" Her powerfully sculpted features saturate the screen in almost every frame, never neutral, always emanating, sometimes radiating but mostly seething from her cauldron of deeply conflicted passions. Classically trained on the piano from a very early age she effortlessly commands with every part of her being, blended or spiked with jazz inflection throughout, with nary a cliché to be found either musically or lyrically.

As with the other documentaries we've watched in the past weeks, this one too brings us to a more enriched experience of our own lives, by contemplating another's.

Thanks Alex, for suggesting it. Ananda

WHAT HAPPENED THIS WEEK
 8/15/16 Monday Morning Recap from Jenniepfeiffer

The "Recap" will be sporadic until the update of the Hearsay News Local Zone Phone Directory is complete. I realize the promised date had been February, then March, etc., which had to be recalculated after the incredibly thorough phone and email work done by Barbara MacDonald as she contacted every listing in the Business section to check for accuracy. To my knowledge, that hasn't been done for the past 7 or so years, or last time Franis was able to make that happen. The response was good, so it resulted in a re-entry of all listings, a time-consuming job for a Hearsay Staff that works on this project in an ASCAT basis (As staff can arrange time) and with work, family, travel, and summer time constraints, it has been a halting and faltering process. Many apologies. It is the fervent hope that this extended labor will produce the new arrival by Labor Day. If that doesn't happen we may have to induce labor to get this new baby delivered. It will be the 2016-17 version. I am loathe to produce a document that still has changes and corrections to make, but I am seeing that is the nature of the product. Because life is what it is, there are ever-changing 868 numbers, cell phone additions, and business comings and goings, which means this is now an 868 Plus Directory. But there just has to be a time when one stops making corrections and prints what is there, which is what we hope to do this month. An addendum can perhaps be added should there be changes appearing before the next update.

In addition to the name and number changes, we have unfortunately had a good number of residents pass on this year, and the Hearsay staff tries to honor each of these loved ones with a photo and/or acknowledgement in the Directory. We are only as good as the information we get, and our information comes from the Hearsay, so hopefully, we will not be missing anyone. This is a reminder that everyone is a reporter, so if you know of the passing of Community members and have photos, please get those in to the Hearsay office for future use.

We appreciate everyone's patience. If you are desperate for a Directory, we still have a few left from last year, offered at 1/2 price, with a $5 trade-in allowance when the new one comes out.

Tomorrow night is the first Bolinas School Board of Trustees meeting of the 2016-17 school year. It looks to be an excellent year, with new organization and the addition of a designated Math instructor for middle school as well as support for the other classroom teachers. I will give a full report after the meeting. jp

Supervisor, speaks with host Herb Kutchins at 5 p.m. on KWMR's Epicenter. Tune in to 90.5 FM in Point Reyes Station, 89.9 FM in Bolinas or 92.3 FM in the Valley, or stream it at kwmr.org.

The League of Women Voters and Your November Ballot

On November 8th we will be voting on 17 propositions, in addition to choosing a candidate for President, the Senate, the House of Representatives, the California State Assembly, a Marin Superior Court Judge, and a Supervisor for our district. Based on your political orientation, you probably already know how you will vote on many of these candidates. But – how will you figure out how to vote on 17 propositions? Direct Democracy in California has made our choices more rich and plentiful, and also much more difficult. You may remember on past ballots that you can read careful, reasoned arguments by the League of Women Voters. Who are they, and how did this come to be?

The League of Women Voters was founded in 1920 during the convention of the National American Woman Suffrage Association. The convention was held just six months before the 19th amendment to the U.S. Constitution was ratified, giving women the right to vote after a 72-year struggle. The League was designed to help 20 million women carry out their new responsibilities as voters. From the beginning, it has been an activist, grassroots organization whose leaders believed that citizens should play a critical role in advocacy. It was then, and is now, a nonpartisan organization. It takes a stand on issues, but does not endorse candidates.. However, League members were encouraged to be political themselves, by educating citizens about, and lobbying for, government and social reform legislation. For example, the League is for universal healthcare, campaign finance reform, action on climate change, gun control and abortion rights.

Most of the League's work is done by volunteers, both women and men. This year, members in all 50 states are working on registering new voters and getting out the vote.

About those 17 Propositions: you will see the League's recommendations for at least 11 of them on the ballot that will be mailed to you before the election. For the 6 that are not included, you will need to look at the arguments pro and con and their authors on your ballot. Proposition 61, for example, would restrict the amount any state agency could pay for drugs to what is paid by the US Department of Veterans Affairs. Opponents of 61 have out contributed supporters by 15 to one, and are many of the country's large pharmaceutical corporations. Supporters include Bernie Sanders, Robert Reich, the California Nurses Association, and many country Democratic parties. Contributions so far exceed $68 million; money spent on this proposition may exceed any amount spent so far in California history.

Here's another one, to make you laugh, or cry, before you finish reading. Proposition 60 will require performers in adult films to use condoms during the filming of sexual intercourse. Funding for support exceeds that of the opposition so far – No on 60 contributors include Californians Against Worker Harassment and the Free Speech Coalition. When you make up your mind about this one, think about sexually transmitted disease, pregnancy, and the positive influence on viewers of seeing condom use, or at any rate knowing about it.

You can support the League of Women Voters online, or become a volunteer.

Excerpt from
 The Gift of Presence
 The Perils of Advice
 Parker J. Palmer

Here's the deal. The human soul doesn't want to be advised or fixed or saved. It simply wants to be witnessed—to be seen, heard, and companioned exactly as it is. When we make that kind of deep bow to the soul of a suffering person, our respect reinforces the soul's healing resources, the only resources that can help the sufferer make it through.

Aye, there's the rub. Many of us "helper" types are as much or more concerned with being seen as good helpers, as we are with serving the soul-deep needs of the person who needs help. Witnessing and companioning take time and patience, which we often lack—especially when we're in the presence of suffering so painful we can barely stand to be there, as if we were in danger of catching a contagious disease. We want to apply our "fix," then cut and run, figuring we've done the best we can to "save" the other person.

During my depression, there was one friend who truly helped. With my permission, Bill came to my house every day around 4:00 p.m., sat me down in an easy chair, and massaged my feet. He rarely said a word. But somehow he found the one place in my body where I could feel a sense of connection with another person, relieving my awful sense of isolation while bearing silent witness to my condition.

By offering me this quiet companionship for a couple of months, day in and day out, Bill helped save my life. Unafraid to accompany me in my suffering, he made me less afraid of myself. He was present—simply and fully present—in the same way one needs to be at the bedside of a dying person.

It's at such a bedside where we finally learn that we have no "fix" or "save" to offer those who suffer deeply. And yet, we have something better: our gift of self in the form of personal presence and attention, the kind that invites the other's soul to show up. As poet Mary Oliver wrote: "This is the first, the wildest, and the wisest thing I know: that the soul exists and is built entirely out of attentiveness."

I leave you with two pieces of advice—a flagrant self-contradiction for which my only defense is Emerson's dictum that "consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds." First, don't give advice, unless someone insists. Instead, be fully present, listen deeply, and ask the kind of questions that give the other a chance to express more of his or her own truth, whatever it may be. Second, if you find yourself receiving unwanted advice from someone close to you, smile, and ask politely if you can pay a little less this month.
