SATURDAY MARCH 3rd

Laissez les bon temps rouler!

(Let the good times roll!)

The annual Tardy Hearty Mardi Gras Party will be at the Bolinas Community Center this Saturday March 3rd. This Bolinas style event has been ongoing since hurricane Katrina as a celebration of life, our community, and support of all humanity and the Earth.

This year Los Padres will provide the festive dancing music and Mirta Guzman will be cooking food for purchase for the event. So dress up, put on your beads and dancing shoes, and come enjoy an evening with your friends, Neighbors, and CommUnity.

Parade, gather in the Plaza at 5:30; then the Doors open at 6 for food and refreshments; Music will begin around 7. Adults $10; Teens And Seniors $5; children FREE.

Let's get 2018 rolling into Spring with music, food, and celebration!!!

FAKE NEWS!

Peter Coyote at Commonweal

On Saturday at Commonweal the New School presented Peter Coyote in conversation with Steve Heilig. The subject was fake news and the talk began by citing the recent Ken Burns documentary on the Vietnam War which Coyote narrated.

During the war the trumped-up body counts on the nightly news were a glaring example of governmental lying - fake news. Coyote went on to trace the tragic decline of our political system from Reagan to the present day.

He proposed four steps to stop fake news and fix our broken political system:

- #1 All news must have an agreed upon basis in fact
- #2 People pay for the electoral process
- #3 Eliminate gerrymandering of election districts that are balkanizing our country
- #4 End non-person corporations spending their booty to influence elections

At the end of Coyote's talk there was a question and answer period. Most of the questions were actually comments that echoed our current sad state of affairs.

I had prepared a more philosophical question and when called upon asked "We've lost our moral compass. Do you think it's the fault of technology?"

Coyote's face changed as he heard the phrase "moral compass" He spoke with an open heart about his practice of Zen and the way he set his own moral compass. Before my eyes Peter Coyote, the famous actor/author/activist transformed from an angry leftist into a humble Zen Buddhist monk (he has taken vows)

"I'd rather make a sandwich for a hungry guy than make a speech on world hunger." he said. "The truth of it is what do you do every day? How do you treat every person you come into contact with? Do you practice being universally kind? Do you pretend you don't have shadows and all the evil in the world is on them?"

"That's the moral compass. The moral compass is to understand that there's an invisible, pregnant energy in the universe that creates everything. It throws up human beings and solar systems and hummingbirds and dolphins and we're all made of the same stuff."

"So the salient question is 'How did you come to believe that way? It's so different than my experience.' But if I talk to you that way you know I'm not judging you, and we can have a conversation. We can become friends with differences."

I expected more depressing news about fake news, but instead received a teaching about "engaged Buddhism" It was a beautiful transmission of truth in the Big Room at Commonweal. A slogan from the 60's popped into my mind: "Make love, not war."

We can become friends with differences.
Thank you, Mr. Coyote.

Evolution of Organic: Film Screening and Discussion at the Dance Palace

Saturday, March 3, 2018

7:00 PM

Point Reyes Station—On Saturday March 3rd, the Dance Palace will be presenting a very important film and panel discussion: Evolution of Organic. This film created by Academy Award nominated filmmaker Mark Kitchell and narrated by Frances McDormand, celebrates the vanguard of organic agriculture.

Pioneers and industry mavericks of the organic food movement tell the story of the rise of organic farming and food. A motley crew of back-to-the-landers, spiritual seekers and farmers' sons and daughters rejected modern chemical farming and set out to invent organic alternatives. We learn how organic culture becomes a part of agriculture and how the soil under our feet may save us from global warming. The film screening will be followed by a panel discussion featuring the filmmaker and also local leaders of the organic farming movement including John Wick of Marin Carbon Project and Nicasio Native Grass Ranch, Arron Wilder of Table Top Farm, Jim Baum of Marin Community Farm Stands, Loren Poncia of Stemple Creek Ranch and Caymin Ackerman of Big Mesa Farm.

This event is made possible by the following supporters: Table Top Farm, The Living Seed Company, Point Reyes Flowers, Devil's Gulch Ranch, Marin Community Farm Stands, Marin Roots Farm, Tomales Farmstead Creamery.

Tickets are $10 for the screening and discussion. Tickets can be purchased in advance at dancepalace.org. For more information call (415) 663-1075.

COYOTE COMIX

PETER COYOTE AT COMMONWEAL

I KEEP THINKING THAT IF WE REALLY WANTED TO MAKE CHANGE, WE WOULD ASK EVERYBODY TO STOP SHOPPING FOR A MONTH - MAKE IT PART OF THE MESSAGE THAT WE ARE NOT GOING TO KEEP THIS SHIP AFLOAT AS LONG AS YOU KEEP SHOOTING BLACK MEN IN THE BACK AS THEY ARE RUNNING AWAY, AND MURDERING KIDS

LIKE REVEREND BILLY TALEN? YEP, HE'S AN OLD FRIEND

I HAVE THREE PRIORITIES: NUCLEAR ACCIDENTS, GLOBAL WARMING AND ECONOMIC DEMOCRACY

THE ELECTION - WAS THERE REALLY 'NO DIFFERENCE' BETWEEN TRUMP AND HILLARY? - LIFE'S HARD FOR THE STUPID

TO WATCH THESE YOUNG KIDS FROM FLORIDA STAND UP AND RECEIVE THE CALUMNY OF POLITICIANS MAKING HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS A YEAR, WELL, I'M A BUDDHIST PRIEST BUT I CAN'T HELP THINKING 'START THE KILLING'

WHAT WE'RE FACED WITH IS THE LAST GASP OF 1950'S WHITE MEN, WHO WOULD LIKE TO GO BACK TO SOME FANTASY WHERE THEY RULED EVERYTHING

THANK YOU TO STEVE HEILIG FOR INSTIGATING AND REMEMBERING
