The Bo'osphere

by StuArt

(edited for increased relevance by Bill Braasch)

The Freebox lives in the heart of Bolinas, directly behind the Community Center and adjacent to the People's Store. The Freebox, like Bolinas itself, exists in a different realm than the ordinary world. Locals refer to that space as the Bo'osphere, a place of imagination that is not accessed by ordinary means. Like Brigadoon, Bolinas appears magically out of the mist without a signpost to call attention to itself. Likewise, the Freebox is a magical portal to a hidden dimension.

The Freebox is a place of metaphor and mystical meaning. The stuff in the Freebox has no price tag, it can't be bought. It's a gift from the universe awaiting appreciation and understanding. What's required is humility and an open mind. Enter the Freebox with wonder and acceptance. Like receiving a Tarot reading, allow the Freebox to present you with symbolic information for your journey of self discovery.

Perhaps there is an article of clothing that will encourage your personal transformation. Maybe a dog-eared paperback novel will give you an instant I-Ching reading. Even amongst the detritus on the floor you may find a small figurine that will prompt some forgotten memory or give you a metaphoric insight into the enigma of your life.

Expect a miracle, but drop all expectations. That's the way the magic of the Freebox works. Like a dream it gives clues and hints that are as mysterious as life itself. Clean up a bit for increased relevance. Throw away some trash, fold some clothes, organize pairs of shoes, tidy the shelves. The Freebox is a sentient being that will feel your care and respond with love.

Be sure to take something from the Freebox with you. It will work like a magical talisman to attract wonder and meaning. Leave something of your own for others to find. Your vibrations will resonate in the Freebox and in the heart of Bolinas.

Accept the fact that you never know what you're looking for or really need. Allow the Freebox to prompt you into a new realization of your personal, magical mystery trip.

GLEANNINGS Mary Barror

AFFIRMATION/ INUNDATION

I eat the bread I baked. I drink the beer I brewed. I drape myself in white linen woven by my own hands. Making. Making. Making.

My spirit lifts on the wings of a golden hawk. I am the cackle of joy in the throat of the wild goose. I am a child in awe of my own power, filled with wonder, bewildered, awake.

I am one of the wonders of earth, full of blood and breath and singing. Even as I dance toward death, I celebrate my marvelous being. I dance with the great ones who writhe and chant, who conjure spirit, the light in the darkness.

In those moments of silence when desire and will are stilled, I know the purpose gods know. My body is nourished by the things of earth, my spirit by the things of the heart. Under flowering almond trees I eat the fruit of love.

I am making, making, making. I offer what I have made-my bread, my peace, myself. I wrap my skin in the blue robe of heaven. I sit in the garden listening to birds. I do what my heart tells me.

I am what I know, what I feel, what I make. I am myself, the ether of the constant, breathing. I gather and build my life. The earth is a small globe created by thoughts, mine and those of others. All existence is the measure between light and dark, bees and serpents, wind and fire. I love the scorpion, yet I know its poisonous sting. To live in harmony is a beginning.

What can be named can be known, what can not be named must be lived, believed. I speak of the creator and the creation, the ordinary life lived extraordinarily. I work for the sake of working. The joy of creating is the joy of forgetting everything else.

I lean into life. My tongue is fire, my breath is wind. The spirit splits from my mouth. I speak of a chain of events where making leads to making, action to action, love to love, where the beginning began so long ago we find ourselves always in the midst of it.

There is no rest. The act is now. In your lives you will make children, make peace, make errors, you will make trouble, you will dance under the sun and moon. As long as you live you will create life. You will rise and fall many times. It is like the making of a good loaf of bread.

You will be nourished.

The Noosphere

In the original theory of Vladimir Vernadsky, the noosphere is the third in a succession of phases of development of the Earth, after the geosphere (inanimate matter) and the biosphere (biological life). Just as the emergence of life fundamentally transformed the geosphere, the emergence of human cognition fundamentally transforms the biosphere. In contrast to the conceptions of the Gaia theorists, or the promoters of cyberspace, Vernadsky's noosphere emerges at the point where humankind, through the mastery of nuclear processes, begins to create resources through the transmutation of elements.

Pierre Teilhard de Chardin (May 1, 1881 – April 10, 1955) was a French philosopher and Jesuit priest who trained as a paleontologist and geologist and took part in the discovery of Peking Man and Piltdown Man.[1] Teilhard conceived the idea of the Omega Point (a maximum level of complexity and consciousness towards which he believed the universe was evolving) and developed Vladimir Vernadsky's concept of Noosphere. Some of his ideas came into conflict with the Magisterium of the Catholic Church, particularly regarding the doctrine of Original Sin and his views concerning the origin of man. He was severely reprimanded and his works were condemned by the Holy Office.

For Teilhard, the noosphere emerges through and is constituted by the interaction of human minds. The noosphere has grown in step with the organization of the human mass in relation to itself as it populates the Earth. As mankind organizes itself in more complex social networks, the higher the noosphere will grow in awareness. This concept is an extension of Teilhard's Law of Complexity/Consciousness, the law describing the nature of evolution in the universe. Teilhard argued the noosphere is growing towards an even greater integration and unification, culminating in the Omega Point, which he saw as the goal of history. The goal of history, then, is an apex of thought/consciousness.

Thank You from the President

I'd like to take a moment to thank Don Smith for his incredible efforts on behalf of the acoustics of the Community Center.

"I knew nothing about acoustics at the beginning of this project." Don told me with a wry smile, as I helped him install sound absorbent material at the Community Center.

I thought how fortunate the Community Center was to have a person with Don's intelligence and tenacity helping with the hall's sound. We're lucky Don likes to listen to live music and dance.

"After we get the sound fixed we've got to get the people to attend the events." Don told me. "Fishbone Ensemble was great and no one was here."

I agree. We need to fix the sound and then fix the attendance. (It strikes me as significant that the word "attendance" includes the word "dance")

Thanks to Steve Wren, Matt Yerington and David Kimball for assisting Don with the soundproofing.

And thanks to everyone who is contributing to the flowering of the Community Center. It's a beautiful expression of the best of Bolinas.

Company name: Sha Sha Higby

Venue: Throckmorton Theatre, Mill Valley Ca

Description: The show explores a whimsical journey of life, death, and rebirth through ephemeral images that evoke the passage of time and day, or the shifting of the seasons. Using the manipulation of hand crafted materials, textures and exotic sculptural costume interwoven with puppetry, dance and intricate props, her work creates a journey in which movement and stillness meet. Shreds of memory lace into a drama of a thousand intricate pieces, slowly moving toward a sense of patience and timelessness.

The gulls can get away from the bustle of the business center hive infesting the land.
They kick it on their own private island by the breakers and await the bath of the sunset.

While the tide pools crackle and pop,
the dry cliffs shed the summer's dead skin,
the invasive exotics ski into the sea like penguins.

That I can stand here
and watch the waterlines
play out in geologic time,
is hope enough for this moment.
