NEW YEARS HOLIDAY

Focus Fuzzy Deities

by StuArt

The long awaited, much ballyhooed End of the Mayan Calendar went down without a hitch on Friday. The beach ritual at 1:01 PST was short and sweet.

The ritual should have been cancelled. It was a stormy, rainy Friday. But the rain had stopped for a while around noon, and I decided to carry on with the ceremony.

It wasn't raining, but it was windy as hell, and I had to struggle to make my way down Brighton Ave. to the beach. I considered turning back and abandoning the solstice ceremony, but the wind seemed to draw me to the beach.

I began to love the blustery power of the wind as it buffeted my body and whistled in my ears. The wind's voice was like a siren's song drawing me down to the rocks at the edge of the ocean.

I met Leah and we walked together to the beach. . . . except there was no beach, even though it was low tide. The ocean was a white froth of wind whipped waves that were crashing on the rocks at the base of the seawall.

We clambered up on the seawall. It wasn't the idyllic spot of sand that I had imagined, but that didn't matter. It was all about the wind, and the power of that invisible force that blew everything away.

Sister Surreal and Penny joined us on the seawall, then Betsy Ann, Cozee and Clu. The ceremony was brief and as powerful as the wind.

We joined hands and offered prayers for the Beginning of the Mayan Calendar.

"What do you want to be in the New Time?" Leah asked me.

"I want to be the wind." I answered, as the wind whistled and whipped around me. At that moment I felt intoxicated by the wind. It was lifting and spinning my spirit and body like the falling leaf of a tree. The rigid, uptight boundaries of my ego/identity were being blown away by the wind. I felt like I was flying.

I looked out at the stormy ocean. It looked especially beautiful like a huge gray angora sweater.

"I want to be the waves also." I added.

I felt the waves crashing on the glistening black rocks at the bottom of the seawall.

"... and I want to be the rocks." It was obvious to me that everything was working together.

"I want to be the planet." I finally concluded.

At that moment I had a little mini-vision. I was standing on the seawall with my friends and I felt the totality of the planet. I zoomed upwards like a screen shot from Google Earth.

For a brief instant I remembered that I was only one tiny manifestation of the planet. It wasn't just me. I was also the ocean, the rocks and the wind — all together on a planet wide trip spinning through the Milky Way.

There was a Solstice gathering at the Community Center that evening. We sat on cushions in a circle on a red carpet. A single candle flickered in the center of a big Hunab Ku. That candle and the fire in the fireplace were the only illumination. The Community Center was quiet, peaceful and dark, like the season itself, perfect for contemplation and dreaming.

After a period of quiet we passed around a candle and invited everyone to speak. I chose to sing the Solstice song that I wrote years ago on Brighton Beach. I had brought my guitar to accompany myself, but unfortunately at the beginning of the evening I had detuned my guitar to play along with some shakahachi music that had been playing on the sound system.

I had tuned every string to the mournful sounds of the shakahachi and it was difficult to put the guitar back in western tuning. It was my turn to speak, and I made small talk as I struggled to tune the guitar.

"In the new Mayan Calendar I'm going to get my guitar in tune." I laughed as I tried to get that pesky B string into some kind of harmonious relationship with the other strings.

I felt the universe laugh with me as I made my New Year's resolution. There was a joyful resonance after I spoke and I felt laughing encouragement from a greater source.

It was as if the universe spoke to me and said, "Stu, if you get your guitar in tune, we're going to have some big fun."

There was one man I'd never seen before at the gathering. He said that he was into transformative sound and had a gig in West Marin that had been cancelled because of the rainstorm. So he had come to the Solstice gathering with his collection of Tibetan singing bowls.

He was skilled at chanting and vocalizing Tibetan style. He passed around the circle four times, each time with a different bowl, and each time chanting and vocalizing in a different style and key.

I sat quietly and visualized with eyes closed as the man chanted. To my great surprise images from Tibetan Tanka paintings began to appear in my mind's eye.

I had just been looking at the "Sacred Art of Tibet" calendar for 2013 now on sale at the People's Store. The images in my mind's eye had an uncanny resemblance to the tanka paintings of deities from the 18th century that were featured in the calendar.

The deities' details were fuzzy but the overall feeling and complexity was definitely Tibetan Tanka. I was impressed with the man's skill and my own suggestibility.

It was at that moment that I had my third vision of the 2012 Winter Solstice.

The new Mayan calendar is like the Art of Sacred Tibet calendar. They're both filled with Fuzzy Deities.

It's our joy and job to bring those Fuzzy Deities into focus.

WINTER CELEBRATION

I attended the holiday meal at BCC this afternoon at 3PM. The hall was filled with people, (about 50) and the table at the front of the room was groaning with the weight of great food to choose from to eat. A roaring fire was in the fire place keeping us warm. The tables were beautifully decorated and just about all of us knew each other. The food was cooked at home or by a band of helpers who worked in the BCC kitchen. A fine meal was followed by some great deserts and some entertainment with some poetry read and piano played by Peter Turner. What a fine way to spend a rainy, late afternoon among friends we care about with everything we needed to have a great time- which is what we did! Many thanks to Jody Angel for organizing this event. She did a great job!! Many thanks to the people who volunteered to do dishes and clean up!

"Bring buyers!" Hermione told me, pointing to the poster for the benefit for "Figure It Out," the life drawing class at the Community Center, on New Year's Eve. "There will be live, nude models for artists to sketch..." Hermione continued "... and art lovers will be able to buy drawings hot off the easel."

I like Hermione's idea of transforming the staid life drawing class into an art happening. It gives me an artistic opportunity to combine my drawing skills, my admiration of the feminine form and performance art. Art buyers, I invite you to participate.

26 December

Boxing Day/St. Stephen/Goddess month of Hestia commences

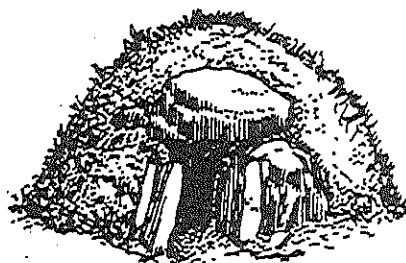

The custom of wren hunting was once widely observed on this day. The tiny bird, whose slaughter was prohibited at other times of the year, was imprisoned in a lantern or a wren house, then solemnly paraded around the village, hung on a holly branch and borne to its funeral by the "droluns" or wren boys.

27 December

St. John the Evangelist

A traditional feast day in freemasonry.

SANTAPOCALYPSE...Now?

By Santa Claus, Esq.

Ho ho ho! So much for that so-called Mayan what-chamacallit, eh? Hope not too many people were disappointed. But don't worry, there's still plenty of change and upheaval on the way, in from many angles - environmental, economic, political - you name it. As you may imagine, I'm a bit pooped out after a long, frosty night of crawling in and out of chimneys and such, all over the globe. In fact, after I finish off one of these fine bottles and cookies some of you so kindly left me, and pay off those equally tired reindeer, I'm gonna take a long, long nap - ten months or so oughta do it....

BUT - here's a thought. Heck, call it a proposal. How about we all pretend that some sort of glorious new Age of Aquarius or whatever sign you choose really did start last week? What might that look like, with the passing of time?

I have a few ideas; here they are:

- Toys for every kid. Well of course this is my first one, duh.
- Good healthcare for anybody who needs it.
- A cleaner world where nobody is exposed to toxic crapola
- A fair taxation and economic system, with people paid what they're worth, no more, no less (hello, teachers!).
- Free birth control available to women worldwide - and what the heck, a "pill" for men too (Mrs. Claus just walked by).
- A nice home for every animal who needs one.
- The end of inhumane and destructive farming of any kind.
- Real, concerted action to combat and deal with climate change.
- (Go ahead, you fill in your favorite/most important pressing issue here)
- ...and....Peace, the real kind. For as somebody once said, "War Is Not Healthy For Children And Other Living Things" (and as I already said regarding my first wish: Duh).

See? The Aquarian Age in ten easy steps! Well, I jest (burp). None of this would be easy or is likely to occur on its own. And no amount of meditation and prayer, however lovely, even essential, that might be, will bring it about. Real progress will take, as somebody said about most things, 10% inspiration and 90% inspiration - work, in other words. Activism, in yet another term. Politicking, in yet one more (icky) one. I can't tell you how to do that, but plenty of others can, in organizations focused on any issue you choose. Choose one. Choose more. Support them. Get to work. Enjoy the process as much as you can. It can't be that much harder than climbing in and out of chimneys, if I do say so.

Thanks for everything, whether you've been naughty, nice, or both. I can't wait to see how things are coming along when I get back next year! Good luck, Make It Beautiful, and: Ho Ho Ho!

- (as told to Steve Heilig, on assignment 12/25/12)

Minutes from the November 26, 2012 Bolinas Fire Protection District Board Meeting

Pres. Buchanan called the regular meeting of the Bolinas Fire Protection District to order at 7:30PM. Dir. Kimball, Dir. Smith and Director-elect Chiera were present. Also present: Chief Brown, Secretary Brown, Jenny Pfeiffer, Don Smith, Beth Carusillo and Pam Litchenwalner of Stinson Beach. Dir. O'Donnell was absent.

MSC, Smith/Kimball (unan with one absence) to approve the agenda.

CHIEF'S REPORT

NERA

Chief Brown invited the Board to the MERA Member Orientation scheduled for November 29th to be held at the Marin Civic Center. The Orientation will consist of first touring the County Communications Center and then a presentation on MERA administrative and financial updates, Strategic Plan implementation and current and future MERA system operations.

Chief Brown warned everyone about a series of three storms coming towards Bolinas.

Planning

- 20 Nymph Road – Demolish existing residence, construct new one
- 15 Oak Road – Legalize existing retaining wall
- 415 Yucca – Solar Install
- 100 Mesa Road – Addition to communications tower – Verizon
- 40 Mesa Road – Solar Install
- 76 Altura Road – Remodel
- 324 Ocean Parkway – Addition
- 160 Overlook – Solar Install
- 280 Mesa – Demolish existing structure, construct new one, and legalize multiple existing structures

Grants

Chief Brown reported that five new Motorola Minitor 5 pagers were purchased with Burton/West Marin Emergency Services grant monies. The pagers have a high malfunction rate so buying several annually will be necessary in order to ensure that each volunteer has a functioning communication device. Reports from other West Marin emergency service departments about pager function are similar.

Training

Asst. Chief Marcotte attended a Train the Trainer course regarding a new electronic Patient Care Record system that all agencies providing first responder medical response in Marin will be required to use as of January 1st. The County of Marin wants to retrieve all data on medical calls. He will train the Volunteers how to use the new system at the next Tuesday night drill on November 27th.

Asst. Chief Marcotte recently bought a new Hazardous Gas Monitor to monitor confined spaces before entry. The monitor checks for dangerous levels of carbon monoxide, methane, oxygen etc. and will be used to ensure Volunteers' safety on emergency calls in confined spaces. BCPUD uses a similar monitor to enter the underground lift station. Asst. Chief Marcotte used proceeds from the sale of outdated radio equipment to purchase the monitor.

The last drill of the year will take place on December 4th. Firefighters George Krakauer, Ron Brown and Cole Rippe will be providing training on electric vehicle safety. Training will resume on January 8th.

Disaster Council

Chief Brown reported that CERT (California Emergency Response Training) training is scheduled for January 19 and 26, 2013. She encouraged everyone to attend. The Bolinas-Stinson School held their annual disaster drill on November 15th. Both campuses simulated an earthquake, and then evacuated and dismissed all students. The drill was very successful and well organized. Chief Brown attended both the drill and the debriefing afterwards. She emphasized the staff's own preparedness for potential disaster.

New Bolinas Disaster Council Coordinator to be approved later in the meeting.

Building and Grounds

Chief Brown reported that she is awaiting two estimates for interior touch-up painting of the fire station. The building is now five years old and beginning to require regular maintenance.

General Operations

The trickle charger on the emergency generator failed. She contacted Air Cooled Diesel Repair who completed the repair at a very reasonable price.

Surfer's Overlook

Dir. Kimball reported that GM Blackman and Drew Kennedy, the engineer from the County of Marin are working together to acquire a drilling permit for testing soil conditions both on the road and on the beach for the repair. Dir. Kimball is also encouraging Drew at the County to develop a monitoring program to regularly measure the sand levels at the beach below Surfer's Overlook. Currently, sand levels on ground level are too low and inhibit the operation of large equipment that will be used in testing the soil/sands. Ideally, Drew will teach Dir. Kimball, BCPUD personnel and others the procedure for taking measurements so the program can be conducted by volunteers.

Maintenance Agreement – CHA

Chief Brown reported that CHA is in agreement for a cap of $30,000 on the Common Area Maintenance Reserve Fund. She will draft a Letter of Agreement for review by both Boards.

Pres. Buchanan remarked on the high number of false alarms during the month of October in the Fire Calls and Emergencies list.

GENERAL BUSINESS

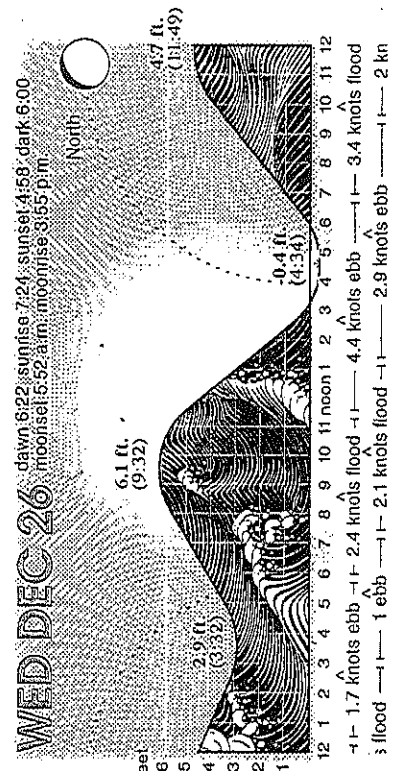

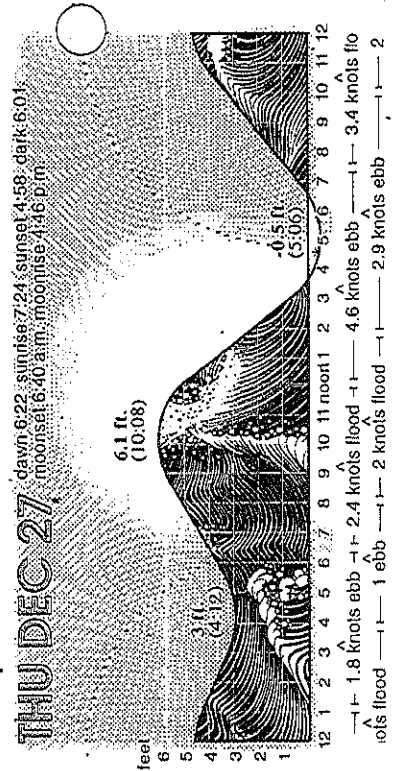

Action Item #1: Administration of Oaths to new Board members.

Pres. Buchanan administered Oaths to new Board member Ed Chiera and incumbent David Kimball. Sheila O'Donnell will take the Oath at a later date as she was absent. The Board welcomed Dir. Chiera and thanked him and Dir. Kimball for their willingness to volunteer.

Action Item #2: Approve Bolinas Disaster Council Coordinator Contract for Beth Carusillo.

MSC, Kimball/Chiera (unan with one absence) to approve Bolinas Disaster Council Coordinator Contract for Beth Carusillo. Chief Brown recommended Beth to the Board as she has recently completed a CERT class and has lots of energy to offer the community. Beth thanked the Board and reviewed her work experience and excitement about the job.

Action Item #3: Accept Draft Audited Financials for FY11/12.

Chief Brown said that the Doran and Assoc. have made one recommendation for the Board or a Board member to review the monthly reconciliations in order to install one more checkpoint in the financial procedures at the station. She suggested Kaaren Gann, the bookkeeper, to fulfill this recommendation. Dir. Kimball, however, pointed out that she does not have the fiduciary responsibility or accountability that a Board member has, and suggested that the Finance Committee take on this task. He suggested the Finance Committee follow Chief Brown's recommendation that they meet with Kaaren Gann and make a recommendation for a new policy at the January Board meeting. Chief Brown noted that in reviewing the audit, she noticed that this was the second year that revenues have dropped by almost 2% and expenditures have risen slightly. She cautioned the Board and is concerned about long-term fiscal sustainability. Dir. Kimball asked when the basic parcel tax for the fire department was last increased. Chief Brown answered that the tax has not been raised since 1990. She went on to explain that new equipment and technology costs are catching up to us coupled with diminished County revenue tax income due to mergers of parcels and a slower real estate market. Dir. Kimball commended Chief Brown and former Chief Hicks for being responsible stewards of the community tax dollars and cautioning the Board on financial planning. The Finance Committee will address these issues in the New Year. Dir. Kimball offered to "walk" the Board through the financial details of the audit at the December or January Board meeting. MSC, Kimball/Smith (unan with one absence) to accept draft audit financials for FY11/12.

Discussion: Consideration of refinancing construction bonds.

Dir. Kimball asked the Board for authorization to continue a dialog with a financial advisor about refinancing the construction bonds. He reported that as of January 2013, there are no prepayment penalties for paying off the existing bonds. He estimates that a refinance would cost the District approximately $40,000 but would potentially save $6,000 annually or 2% of the budget. Chief Brown summarized that the savings would ultimately either reduce the term and/or reduce the payments made by tax paying citizens of Bolinas. Pres. Buchanan suggested the Finance Committee continue to work on the project which he described as beneficial to the entire tax paying community. Don Smith asked if the Solar Clean Renewable Energy Bond (CREB) could benefit the Districts' ability to purchase new bonds and if there was a possibility of working out lower interest rates of the existing bonds. Director Kimball noted that the CREBs interest rate is zero because the federal government pays the interest expense to the bond purchaser. There were no objections to Dir. Kimball continuing to research a possible refinance. Pres. Buchanan thanked him for his attention to this issue.

Action Item #4: Approve Verizon request to add microwave antenna to existing Crown Castle tower located on Fire District property. Chief Brown reported that Laura Pazzini of Crown Castle had planned to attend the meeting but was not present. Laura previously stated that the microwave antenna would be compliant with FCC standards for EMF limits and is therefore undeniable. Chief Brown summarized a legal conversation she and Dir. Kimball had with legal counsel at the County of Marin, in which it was clarified that because the RF compliance report is under the FCC 5% emissions threshold, the microwave antenna application cannot be denied based on perceived health issues. Dir. Kimball gave a brief history of communications with Crown Castle regarding antenna configurations. Three of the nine panel antennas approved in 2009 have yet to be put into operation. When they are fully operating, SiteSafe would ideally complete another report on RF emissions at and around the station. Dir. Kimball suggested that Verizon complete the previously approved installations while engineers of Verizon, Sitesafe, Don Smith, and others including himself and Chief Brown continue an open dialog to analyze potential antenna configurations in order to determine the best solution for both the Bolinas community and Verizon/ Crown Castle before approving the request for the microwave antenna. The Board continued the discussion and decided to again put the item on the agenda for the December Board meeting. Dir. Kimball and Chief Brown will write a letter to the District Manager of Crown Castle respectfully requesting her attendance at the December meeting and a continuation of dialog with Verizon engineers, SiteSafe, Don Smith, Dir. Kimball and Chief Brown with an intent to develop an open and constructive on-going means of dialogue between the District, Crown Castle and Verizon for the remaining term of the lease (about ten years).
