EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH FEBRUARY 2018

WILLIAM KRAKAUER

FIRE ENGINEER
MARIN COUNTY FIRE DEPARTMENT
SERVING THE COUNTY SINCE 2010

Willy holds himself to a high standard and encompasses the County's values, setting an example for others. He is part of several teams that provide direct aid in reducing loss of life, property and environment such as the Tamalpais Fire Crew, Urban Search and Rescue Team, Self-Contained Breathing Apparatus Program, and Explorer Cadre and Rope Rescue Cadre. He was recently assigned to the devastating Sonoma County fire siege, the Southern California fire storm and with USAR battling mudslides and floods in the Santa Barbara area.

His love for Marin and his personal character shines through his ability to help develop young adults, supervising, mentoring and equipping them with tools to be productive leaders and exposing them to careers in fire service. Willy's hobbies include repairing and maintaining small motor and mechanics, so aside from his role as emergency responder, he is a key player in maintaining the team's rescue craft and power equipment.

Chief Weber said 'There is not enough time in the day to describe the level of leadership, genuine commitment, and service Willy provides to our county. The entirety of the department crew was tested and pushed to its limit with the devastations California experienced. Willy puts 100 percent of himself in every role he's had with us, and it was truly amazing to see him continue to be an unwavering leader and team player at the forefront of the devastations.'

Thank you, Willy, for your dedication to Marin County and congratulations on being chosen Employee of the Month.

Palm Sunday Service in West Marin

Leaning on his cane at the foot of the stairs of tiny St. Mary Magdalene Church in Bolinas before Palm Sunday Mass on March 25, Dominican Father Bruno Gibson drew his small group of congregants into an intimate semi-circle as he recalled the faith of a man cured of his blindness by Jesus in the Gospel of Mark.

"Like Bartimaeus, whose sight was restored because of his faith, let us follow our Lord up to Jerusalem," he said, blessing a small bundle of palm leaves with holy water before the group filed into church behind him, palm leaves in hand. "We're told he followed Jesus all the way up to the cross."

As usual, the cinematic appeal of the historic white clapboard chapel perched atop a flower-flecked hill once known as "Gospel Flat" overlooking Bolinas Bay in Marin County had beckoned local parishioners as well as visitors from as far away as Modesto, Sonoma and San Francisco.

Father Gibson has been making the long but pleasant commute to celebrate Mass each Sunday at 10:30 a.m. for many years, despite treatment for cancer and more recently, a broken hip that has tempered his movements but not his hospitality or his joy.

He took time to thank those who had traveled to visit the parish and welcomed them back. He expressed his appreciation to Catholic San Francisco for the paper's visit, to the choir, to his readers, and with a grin, even to the local laundress who cleaned the liturgical linens "without charging us."

In his homily, Father Gibson referenced the faith of the church's patroness, St. Mary Magdalene, who broke an alabaster jar of precious and very expensive anointing oil and poured it over the head of Jesus.

"Some people said what a waste," said Father Bruno. "But somehow in her heart she knew that he was going to be priest, the prophet and the king by his self-giving. She comes again with the precious oil to his tomb to anoint the body of Jesus and she 'sees that he is alive.'"

Dear Hearsay,

Here is some info on my new movie:

The Evening Pink — Part Three:
March 17–April 30

The Farmstand Art Space:
140 Olema-Bolinas Rd, Bolinas, CA

Opening — March 31, 4–8 PM
Film Premiere — The End, at sunset.

The Evening Pink — Part Three

An Anti-Western shot at the twilight of climate fallout, The Evening Pink chronicles performers confronting "Climate Dysphoria" — fears of civilization-collapse through climate change — amidst landscapes severely affected by drought, fire, flood, and the total disruption of seasons, ecologies. A conscious revisiting of the Western genre, the project is comprised of unique photographic prints, books, and film-based works created between the Pacific Ocean and Interior American West.

The End

While making The Evening Pink, it was noted that several photographs appeared reminiscent of the closing scene in a classic Western. To verify this, 100 films were deconstructed. The last scenes were reconfigured. Patterns were revealed: after violence, destruction, the possibility for transformation is suggested — just beyond the edge of the frontier. The End situates the conclusion of the classic Western in a contemporary context, where climate change looms and beckons as an imperceptible — yet constant — force on the horizon.

- Ethan Rafal

Saturday night's Square Dance was a hoot, especially the first hour when the kids were taught how to square dance. The kids were especially keen on making arches so other dancers could pass under their outstretched arms. Some of the arches were kid size and presented a challenge for full grown adults.
