El Velador

by StuArt

On Sunday night Roadside Cinema presented the documentary "El Velador" (the Night Watchman) by Natalia Almada at the Farmstand. The film focuses on the night watchman of the Humaya cemetery, in Culiacán in the state of Sinaloa, Mexico. Culiacán is at the center of the Mexican drug trade and the cemetery is where many of the dead drug traffickers, narcos, are buried in palatial mausoleums.

The film makes only oblique references to the narcos and the drug cartels by including snippets of television and radio news reports. There is no sensationalism, no dead bodies, no assault rifles. Instead the pacing of the film is like the cemetery itself - somber and reflective. The dead narcos are referenced only in memorial plaques and pictures. None were over 30 years old.

I found the most impressive thing about the film to be the filmmaker herself - Natalia Almada. Although Natalia is originally from Culiacán she spoke with no accent and was amazingly articulate during the question and answer session after the screening.

Natalia spoke about the challenges of making the film. How difficult and dangerous it was for a lone woman to document the macho world of the drug trade.

She said that she was accompanied by a bodyguard from her father's ranch. Whenever he told her it was time to pack up and leave she did so immediately even if she was in the middle of an important shot.

Natalia remarked that the best light for filming was at dawn and dusk and El Velador is often quite beautiful. She also included plenty of nighttime shots as befits the story of a night watchman.

Natalia often used close-ups. For example
she focused on the hands and feet of the construction workers building the mausoleums.
Their coarse hands and worn out shoes made a powerful statement about the poverty of the workers compared to the wealth of the narcos.

El Velador is a fascinating film about the war on drugs. It makes its point in a subtle and lyrical way, and paints a picture of Mexico that rarely gets shown. ¡Bravo, Natalia!

America's Happiest

COASTAL LIVING NAMES CHINCOTEAGUE, VIRGINIA, "AMERICA'S HAPPIEST SEASIDE TOWN" 2014

The Complete List And Rankings Of The 10 Happiest Seaside Towns Will Be Revealed
In The July/August Issue Of Coastal Living

New York, NY (June 12, 2014) – Chincoteague, Virginia, tops the Coastal Living third annual list of "America's Happiest Seaside Towns." The complete list of the 10 best places to live and visit by the sea is featured in the July/August 2014 issue of Coastal Living, on newsstands June 20.

Chincoteague's win marks the first for the Mid-Atlantic seaboard. Located on Virginia's eastern shore, Chincoteague is the state's only resort island and remains a haven of unspoiled nature, as well as a home for the island's historic wild ponies.

Coastal Living editors unveiled the list of America's 10 "Happiest Seaside Towns" in the March 2014 issue and invited America to vote online and via smartphone. Fans rallied around their favorite towns, and Chincoteague was voted No. 1, followed by Captiva Island, Florida.

"Beach towns have a special place in people's hearts. Whether they're longtime residents, frequent vacationers, or one-time visitors, they have a passion for these towns that's invigorating to see," said Coastal Living Editor-in-Chief Antonia van der Meer. "This list features some of the world's most beautiful and charming coastal communities, and we are thrilled to share it with America."

Coastal Living announces "America's Happiest Seaside Towns" 2014 as ranked by consumers:

1. Chincoteague, VA
2. Captiva Island, FL
3. Saugatuck, MI
4. St. Augustine, FL
5. Provincetown, MA
6. St. Simons Island, GA
7. Watch Hill, RI
8. Haleiwa, HI
9. Scarborough, ME
10. Bolinas, CA

COASTAL LIVING®

Coastal Living chose its 2014 "America's Happiest Seaside Towns" finalists based on criteria that included ranking on the Gallup-Healthways Well-Being Index, percentage of sunny days, healthiness of beaches, commute times, walkability, standard of living and financial well-being of the locals, geographic diversity, and an editorial assessment of "coastal vibe." Locations named as "America's Happiest Seaside Towns" in 2012 and 2013 were not eligible to make the list.

For the full list of towns, visit www.coastalliving.com/happytowns2014.

About Coastal Living

A national magazine that celebrates life along the coast, Coastal Living (www.coastalliving.com) is the source of inspiration and information for people who live or dream of living a coastal lifestyle. Now in its 17th year, Coastal Living serves a total audience of 4.4 million. Coastal Living is available on all tablets and is published by Time Inc., the largest magazine media company in the United States.

Hi Michael,

It's officially summer, and everyone – residents and tourists alike – are out enjoying beautiful Bolinas, CA! This town tucked away in the Bay Area was just voted #10 on the third-annual list of "America's Happiest Seaside Towns" by Coastal Living Magazine. Bolinas was recognized for its number of sunny days, the healthiness of its beaches, and the ease of walkability of the area. This year, national clothing retailer J. Jill partnered with the publication to create the perfect "Provincetown" look for those living in the town and those traveling to it, which I thought would be perfect to feature in an upcoming story.

Stylists at J. Jill selected a "West Coast Casual" outfit, including the Embroidered Blouson Tank and the Beach Cargo Shorts. This relaxed look will fit right in with the offbeat atmosphere of this small California town.

J.Jill is easy, relaxed, inspired style and we strive to help uncomplicated fashion for our customers. By creating women's looks for each Seaside Town, we are fulfilling that commitment and helping women find outfits that are perfect for life on the Island or just a visit.

Attached is the official press release announcing the list with information on how Bolinas was originally selected. If you need additional imagery for your story, please let us know!

All the best,
Emily
