Salinas?

by StuArt

Thanks to Molly and Howard for producing such a lovely centennial celebration of Woody Guthrie.

The tableau vivant in front of the Community Center was a nice touch. The scene was straight out of dustbowl Oklahoma in the 30's,

There was a broke down truck parked in the handicapped space with a bunch of Okies lolling about and panhandling.

One of the Okies knew something about automobiles, but someone "stole his tools." I wasn't sure how great a mechanic he really was, he'd already traded the battery for gas.

The Okies were totally confused as to where they had wound up.

"Bolinas? Is that the same as Salinas?"

I explained to the mechanic how Salinas was Steinbeck country and Bolinas was Brautigan country.

"You don't say." the Okie squinted at me with a toothpick jutting from his haw.

Some of the Okies pulled out guitars and busked for spare change. They had a couple of small white chickens in a cage.

"5 dollars to pet the chickens." the Okie called out to some folks strolling down Wharf. I explained to him that even in marvelous Marin, no one was going to pay 5 dollars to pet his chickens.

"You don't say" the Okie said again with the toothpick still jutting from his jaw.

I had a feeling that he'd say the same thing, no matter what I said.

GREAT PEACEFUL VICTORY VERSES

May all misfortune be averted
May all diseases be cured
May no dangers be for you
May you live long and happily
May all blessings be yours
May all devas protect you
By the power of remembering the lives of all Buddhas, their teachings, and all seekers for truth, may you always live in safety and peace

(Given to me by Trishna Horvath)

This is how it actually works. There has to be some kind of respect for the jitters, some understanding of how our emotions have the power to run us around in circles. That understanding helps us discover how we increase our pain, how we increase our confusion, how we cause harm to ourselves. Because we have basic goodness, basic wisdom, basic intelligence, we can stop harming ourselves and harming others. Because of mindfulness, we see things when they arise. Because of our understanding, we don't buy into the chain reaction that makes things grow from minute to expansive. We leave things minute. They stay tiny. They don't keep expanding into World War III or domestic violence. It all comes through learning to pause for a moment, learning not to just impulsively do the same thing again and again. It's a transformative experience to simply pause instead of immediately filling up the space. By waiting, we begin to connect with fundamental restlessness as well as fundamental spaciousness.

The result is that we cease to cause harm. We begin to know ourselves thoroughly and to respect ourselves. Anything can come up, anything can walk into our house; we can find anything sitting on our living-room couch and we don't freak out. We have been thoroughly processed by coming to know ourselves, thoroughly processed by this honest, gentle mindfulness.

We don't start blurting out words just because no one else is talking and we're nervous. We don't chatter away like magpies and crows. We've heard it all; we've been insulted and we've been praised. We know what it is to be in situations where everyone is angry, where everyone is peaceful. We're at home in the World because we're at home with ourselves, so we don't feel that out of nervousness, out of our habitual pattern, we have to run at the mouth. Our speech is tamed, and when we speak, it communicates. We don't waste the gift of speech in expressing our neurosis.

Not causing harm requires staying awake. Part of being awake is slowing down enough to notice what we say and do. The more we witness our emotional chain reactions and understand how they work, the easier it is to refrain. It becomes a way of life to stay awake, slow down, and notice.

At the root of all the harm we cause is ignorance. Through meditation, that's what we begin to undo. If we see that we have no mindfulness, that we rarely refrain, that we have little well-being, that is not confusion, that's the beginning of clarity. As the moments of our lives go by, our ability to be deaf, dumb, and blind just doesn't work so well anymore. Rather than making us more uptight, interestingly enough, this process liberates us. This is the liberation that naturally arises when we are completely here, without anxiety about imperfection.

Three excerpts from Pema Chodron "When Things Fall Apart"; Heart Advice for Difficult Times.

The Okies sang a union song by Woody Guthrie, all about organizing and rising up to bring justice to the working world.

I told the Okie about the Occupy movement and suggested they team up with the activists in Oakland.

"Hell no, we ain't no agitators." Mr. You-don't-say finally said. "We're salt of the earth blown, like dust in the wind all the way here to California. We're dust bowl refugees looking for the garden of Eden."

"California's a garden of Eden." I quoted Woody Guthrie "a paradise to live in or see; but believe it or not, you won't find it so hot if you ain't got the do re mi."

"You don't say." the Okie grinned at me. "5 dollars to pet the chickens."

THE Park

"The park", as it happens, is what I myself have always called our downtown people's commons. So, for me, coincidentally, "the" already happens to be our new park's name.

Sometimes for fun I make the "the" into an acronym, like "to have enough", or "top heavy elephants", or "this here everyday" or "... .."

Many thanks for planting day being such a town good time, it was THE place to be, and last Sat we occupied The Park with song in late afternoon sunlight on warm stones.

Capitalizing on its new energy, you may be sure I will gratefully think of it now as THE Park.

ps: enjoyed all the naming....

Dear Housing Advocate Friends,

The Marin County Community Development Agency is embarking on an effort to develop Multi-Family Design Guidelines. The guidelines are intended to improve the predictability and outcome of the County's development review process. They will define positive design attributes and set clear expectations regarding the character of new multi-unit and mixed-use buildings in unincorporated Marin County communities. Designers and builders will use the guidelines as new projects are conceived, and County officials and community advisory groups will rely on them when evaluating and responding to development proposals.

I will be promoting this event in the next BCLT e-newsletter - are you on the list? (Join the BCLT e-list by visiting www.bolinaslandtrust.org or send me an email at info@bolinaslandtrust.com).

Hoping Bolinas Housing Advocates will attend the meeting in Bolinas on Thursday, Aug. 23 at the Firehouse from 6:30-8:30 pm and fill out their survey? You can do the survey on-line then email back, and there will be surveys at the meeting - visit www.marincounty.org/multi-family for the survey.

The County has asked me to help spread the word... as multi-family units are of critical importance to affordable housing, I hope you'll participate. It's important that the County receives feed back as this survey will have a future impact on design guidelines.

Thanks everyone!
