SQUIRTING SIZZLE CHILL

You look for meaning on the coast
and there is none.
And for that, finally,
all at once,
you are glad.
No metaphor
for your life here.
Just the hills.
Just the lagoon.
Just the pure air.
Just the water -
squirting in and out.
Just your heart beating.
Just walking as the sun
plunges into the sea
sizzled by its heat.
Just the moon rising
over the hills.
Just the ocean.
Nothing else needed.
So chill.

BOB DEMMERLE FOR SCHOOL BOARD

I've known Bob as a friend, neighbor and more for decades. He is one of the most caring parents, especially when it comes to our school. He has devoted, literally, hundreds of hours in so many different ways.

His involvement in the social-emotional learning committee makes him an especially strong candidate and leader in the best approach to stop bullying in our school.

As many of you know from my earlier writings, my younger daughter survived bullying in our school purely through her inner strength. She went on to excel at The Lawrenceville School, Mt. Holyoke College and Tulane University (MPH), in spite of Bolinas School, not because of it.

Bob Demmerle on the School Board would help insure that the current generation of kids get their chance to not just survive, but to excel in their experience here.

I have known the Rodoni Family since I came to live in Bolinas more than 30 years ago. They use to have a baseball team and I have memories of their Dad playing as a pitcher. Among them, I've felt the warmth, the love, the friendship, the honesty and the loyalty characteristic of people good at heart.

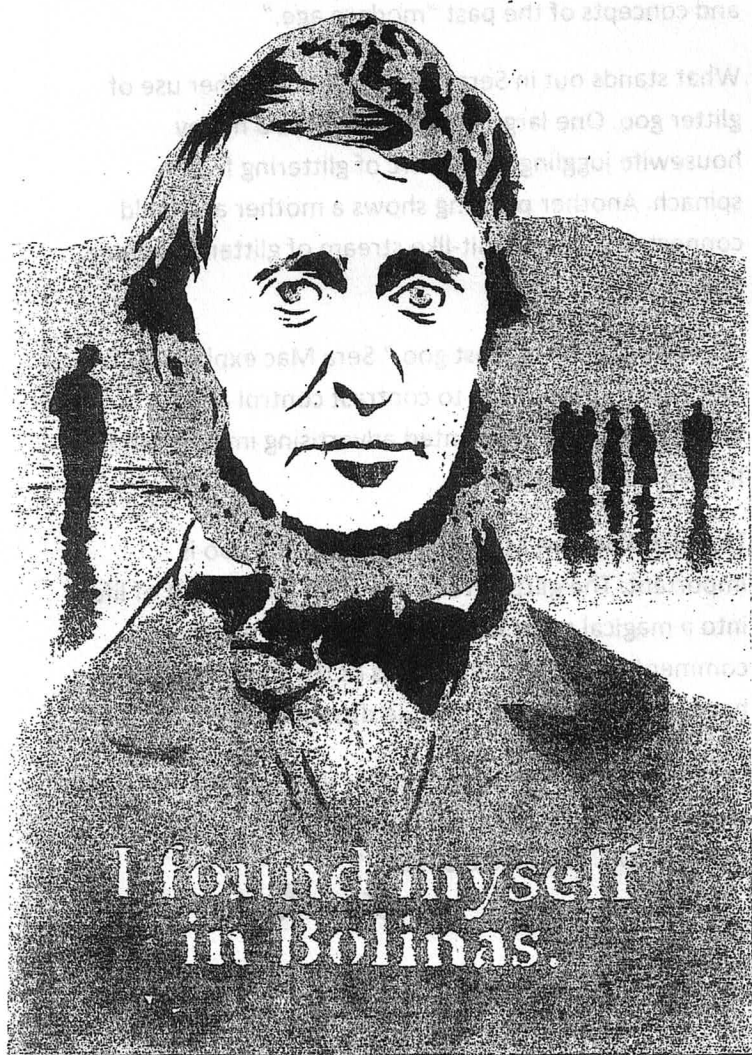

That is why I support Dennis Rodoni as a candidate for supervisor. I believe in him. I believe in the values his dad taught him. I believe he will be the best supervisor for our district.

Ashley Broder at the Farmstead 7 this FRIDAY

Southern California based composer-instrumentalist Ashley Broder's myriad talents and musical accomplishments defy easy description or classification. Fluent on mandolin (both acoustic and electric), violin, and cello, Broder crafts melodies, sonic textures and haunting harmonies that distinguish her works easily from the norm. Her original compositions draw inspiration from an eclectic range of genres, including folk, jazz, classical, pop, and rock. Classically trained in violin as a child, Broder discovered the mandolin at age eight, then took up the cello in college. Described as a "mandolin phenomenon" by the San Diego Tribune and highly sought after by a wide range of musicians needing to round out their sound, Broder has performed in folk clubs, festivals, bars, dance halls, orchestras, and recording studios.

Sera Mac and the Magical Goo

Saturday was a fine day for a stroll to the Farmstand. Strolled is not the right word, sauntered is better. Sauntered is how Thoreau would describe it, and since Sunday is the big Thoreau reading, sauntered it is.

On Saturday I sauntered down to the Farmstand for "Americana" the opening of Sera Mac's show of paintings.

Sauntering along busy Bolinas-Olema Road is more problematic than one might think. Cars slow down momentarily to check out a Thoreau-like pedestrian sauntering down the bike path, then accelerate and speed away (as if they will be infected by sauntering!)

Sera Mac's paintings use advertising imagery from the 50's to make ironic comments on the role of women in our society. "Wasn't the future wonderful?" It's a familiar post-modern gambit to poke fun at the conceits and concepts of the past "modern age."

What stands out in Sera Mac's paintings is her use of glitter goo. One large painting features a happy housewife juggling a huge arc of glittering frozen spinach. Another painting shows a mother and child connected with a vomit-like stream of glittering golden goo.

"There's a taboo against goo," Sera Mac explained, "the messy part of life. I like to contrast control and abandon- the tightly painted advertising imagery and the loose abstract goo."

The fact that Sera Mac adds glitter to the goo is important. The glitter transforms the gooey snot of life into a magical substance. What could be another comment on the deceptiveness of the dream machine becomes a celebration of pixie dust and magic.

Sera Mac's show is up for another week. Make sure to stop by the Farmstand. Remember:

"ART INSIDE. VEGGIES OUTSIDE."

Bolinas Rod & Boat Club

The Briones Lions Club Needs Of New Members!

For 50 years, the men and women of the Briones Lions have been serving the communities of Stinson Beach and Bolinas. Whether it's glasses for the needy, building a computer lab at the school, making someone's dream a reality, picking up the litter along the Lagoon, sending kids to summer camp, sponsoring the Annual 4th of July Celebration, or one of the many other services provided over the years, the Briones Lions have been there.

But, now, the Briones Lions need your help! In order for the Briones Lions to continue serving the people of Stinson Beach and Bolinas, we need new energy, new ideas and, in short, new members! In fact the Club's very existence is now depending on an influx of new members.

If you are interested in learning more about the Briones Lions, please join us for our next General Meeting, Thursday, October 27th at 7pm at the Bolinas Rod & Boat Club. Dinner is on us!

For more information, please call:

Matt Lewis, President, at 415-868-2004

Mike Aitken, Vice President, at 415-868-1796

Connie Pepper, Secretary, at 415-847-7103

We hope to see you there!

How I became a Briones Lion

In 1989, my daughter, Casey, was born. She was generally healthy, but she was born with an inguinal hernia and a cyst on her inner arm. The cyst would have to be removed surgically, but there was a chance that the hernia would heal on its own. If it didn't heal within a year, she would need surgery to repair it also. It didn't heal, so she ended up needing surgery for both.

The cost for the surgeries was $1,400.00. The problem was that we had no medical insurance or money at that time to pay for it. We didn't know what to do.

Then, one morning, there was a knock on the door. It was an old family friend who asked if he might speak to me for a minute. He said, "I hear that your daughter is in need of an operation, and that you don't have insurance or the means to pay for it?" I told him that that was so. And, he said, "Well the Briones Lions Club would like to pay for it!" I about fell over.

To make a long story short: My daughter got her operation, thanks to the Lions.

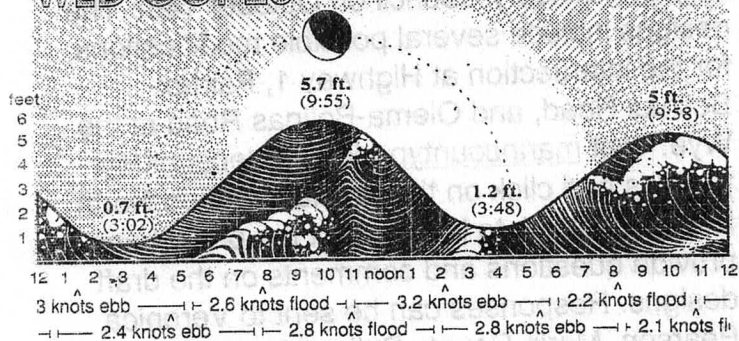

And, I have been a Briones Lion ever since.

Come join the Briones Lions Club for dinner this Thursday, October 27th, 7pm, at the Rod & Boat Club and find out more of how we serve the communities of Stinson Beach and Bolinas.
